DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

FINAL FORECAST OF THE WHEAT CROP OF BENGAL, 1916-17.

(NOTE.—On an average of the five years ending 1914-15 the area under wheat in Bengal has represented some 0·5 per cent. of the total area under wheat in India. The ratio of irrigated wheat acreage to total wheat acreage in (a) British India and (b) in the territory now reported on has in the five years ending 1914-15 averaged (a) 38·1 per cent and (b) 18·8 per cent., respectively).

Character of the season.—Excessive rainfall in the months of September and October delayed sowings in the more important wheat-growing districts; and heavy showers in November prevented further sowings besides causing considerable damage to the crop already sown. A spell of dry weather then followed right up to the end of January and the crop suffered through want of moisture. There was rain in February, but it came too late to be of any real benefit to the crop. On the whole the season may be regarded as rather unsatisfactory.

Area sown.—The total area sown this year is estimated at 128,800 acres against 133,600 acres last year. The decrease in area is attributed to excessive rain at the time of sowing.

Outturn.—The outturns in the most important wheat-growing districts are as follows :—Malda 80 per cent., Murshidabad 92 per cent., Nadia 58 per cent., and Pabna 80 per cent. According to the District Officers' estimates the total outturn of the Province works out to 81 per cent. as against 78 per cent. of the normal obtained last year. Accepting 10½ maunds as the normal yield per acre, the total yield for the Province is estimated to be 40,241 tons against 40,195 tons last year.

At the end of April the average wholesale price of wheat at the principal marts of the Province was Rs. 5-3-6 per maund or 2 per cent. higher than the price ruling at the same time last year, and 12 per cent. lower than that in 1915. The average wholesale price of common rice for the Province, on the other hand, at the end of April was 12 and 13 per cents. lower than the corresponding rates for 1916 and 1915, respectively.

OF AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

THIRD AND FINAL FORECAST OF THE SPRING OILSEED CROPS OF BENGAL, 1916-17.

(NOTE.—On the average of the five years ending 1914-15 the area under linseed in Bengal represents some 5·7 per cent. and that under rape and mustard 20·8 per cent. of the total area under these crops in British India.)

Character of the season.—Excessive rainfall in September and October retarded sowings generally. The heavy showers in the first part of November checked further sowings and caused some damage to the crops already sown. Since then total absence of rain interfered with the development of the crops to some extent. The season may be regarded as generally unfavourable on the whole.

Acreage.—The total area under oilseed crops (excepting sesamum for which separate forecasts are published) is estimated at 1,421,300 acres against 1,546,200 acres last year or a decrease of about 8 per cent. The decrease is attributed to excessive rainfall at sowing time.

Outturn.—According to district officers' estimates the total outturn of the different kinds of oilseeds (excepting til) for the Province as a whole works out to 85 per cent. against 79 per cent. of the normal last year.

Taking 6 maunds per acre as the normal rate of yield for linseed, rape and mustard and 4¼ maunds per acre for other oilseeds, the total yield of all kinds of spring oilseeds (excepting til) is estimated at 267,400 tons against 266,000 tons of last year.

The decrease in area as compared with that of last year is due to the fact that some lands sown last year were still under water at the time of cultivation this year. About 50 per cent. of the crop has been subsequently damaged for want of rain.

MONTHLY WEATHER AND CROP REPORT OF BENGAL FOR APRIL 1917.

I. Character of the season.—The rainfall during the month was above the normal in Khulna, Howrah, Rajshahi, Pabna, Faridpur, Bakarganj and in all the districts of the Chittagong Division. In the rest of the Province, however, the fall was below the normal. The usual rainfall statement is appended.

II. Progress of agricultural operations.—The harvesting of summer paddy was in progress, but that of other rabi crops was nearing completion. Sowing of autumn paddy and jute continued, but the progress was slow in places for want of sufficient rainfall. Weeding was commenced in some of the eastern districts.

III. State of standing crops.—The state of the standing crops was, as a rule, fairly satisfactory. Excessive rainfall in the Chittagong Division and insufficient rainfall in most of the districts of the Rajshahi Division, however, somewhat affected the growth of the crops.

IV. Prospects and probable outturn.—So far the prospects of jute and autumn paddy were hopeful.

V. Damage to standing crops.—Heavy rain accompanied with hailstorms caused some injury to the standing crops in the Chittagong Division.

VI. Condition of agricultural stock.—The condition of agricultural stock was fair. The number of districts from which cattle-disease was reported during the month varied from eight to twelve.

VII. Failure of pasturage and fodder.—The scarcity of fodder was felt in parts of the Dacca and Mymensingh districts.

VIII. Prices of food-grains.—During the second fortnight of the month under review, the prices of common rice rose in four districts, fell in three and remained stationary in the rest. It varied from eight seers per rupee at Darjeeling and Chittagong Hill Tracts to twelve seers at Bankura.

IX. Condition of agricultural people.—The condition of agricultural people was reported to be fairly good.

Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

Draft Rules.

1. Every vessel entering or passing along the Midnapore Canal, or its branch, the Naraingar Distributary, shall be liable to measurement for the purpose of ascertaining the amount of toll the vessel should pay according to the schedule of rates authorised by Government to be charged on this line of navigation.

2. The tonnage of every vessel, except loose timber and rafts, whether laden or empty, shall, for the purposes of the "Canals Act, 1864," and of these rules, be determined by the following measurements:—

(a) The product of half the length of the vessel, measured along the water-line and round the contour of the vessel from centre of stem to centre of stern-post, multiplied by the interior greatest breadth of the vessel or by the greatest breadth of the cargo, should this overhang, or, as in the case of logs, be lashed alongside, multiplied by the greatest interior depth from the water-line to the bottom of the vessel, is to be taken as equal to the number of maunds upon which toll shall be levied.

(b) The measurement of the length is to be made in feet, rejecting fractions of a foot, and the measurement of the breadth and depth in feet and quarters of feet, rejecting portions of less than a quarter of a foot.

(c) In calculating the amount of toll to be levied, any portion of 100 maunds less than 10 maunds is to be omitted.

(d) In calculating the amount of toll to be levied on steamers, an allowance of one-third the total maundage, as found under clauses (a), (b) and (c), is to be made for engine space.

3. Every vessel entering or passing along the said line of navigation shall be furnished with a ticket on paying the prescribed toll. The ticket shall specify the station at which it has been issued, the name of the person in charge of the vessel, the date on which the voyage commenced, the point to which the vessel may proceed on the line of navigation, the maundage of the vessel, the amount of toll charged, the number of days allowed for the voyage, and the date of such last day. The number of days so allowed without additional payment shall be calculated at the rate of one day for every eight miles, or portion of eight miles, to be traversed, together with one day for every 200 maunds of measurement. In the case of rafts, one day for every five miles shall be allowed.

4. Toll may be paid at the first station, either for the entire number of toll-stations on the line of navigation or for any less number of stations.

5. The tickets thus given may be demanded for inspection by any duly authorised navigation officer, and must be kept on board and at hand for that purpose. They must be shown at each toll-station the vessel has to pass as a passport that no further payment of toll is to be demanded. The tickets shall be delivered up at the last toll-station.

Navigation officers shall have authority to check-measure vessels whenever they consider it necessary, and if the toll due according to the check-measurement exceeds that originally paid, the difference shall be payable at the toll-station of check-measurement, or at the next toll-station at which the vessel may arrive if the check-measurement was made at some point other than a toll-station. The officer collecting the difference shall endorse the ticket showing the measurements, and note the amount recovered in excess of the toll originally paid.

6. Owners or hirers of vessels may compound, by the payment of a fixed sum, for the use of the whole or any portion of the line of navigation for any period that may be agreed upon, not exceeding one year. In such case the vessel shall be furnished with a ticket showing the amount of toll paid, the period for which the toll has been compounded, and the limits of the line of navigation within which the vessel may pass. Such ticket shall be kept on board the vessel, and shall be produced when required under rule 5, but shall be given up only on the date of the expiry of the period for which it is granted, and at the station from which it is issued.

7. Duplicates of lost tickets of which the numbers and dates of entry can be satisfactorily established, will be granted by the officers in charge of toll-stations on payment of a fee of one rupee.

8. Every vessel, which does not complete its voyage within the number of days allowed by rule 3, shall, for each day or part of a day in excess, be liable to an extra charge equal to 8 annas per 100 maunds, calculated on the maundage of the vessel, as determined by rule 2. The charge for demurrage on timbers and rafts shall be as follows :—

Timber in rafts or loose	...	One anna per timber per day.
Bamboos in floats	...	Two annas per 100 per day.
Bullahs in rafts	...	Eight annas per 100 per day.

Provided as follows :—

(1) Exemption from payment of demurrage may be granted to vessels detained in the canal or its branch by stress of weather or heavy traffic, steamers broken down and boats damaged, if immediate notice of the cause of detention be given at the nearest toll-station for the information of the Executive Engineer.

(2) Missionary boats are exempted from payment of demurrage for lying in the canal or its branch.

(3) Exemption from payment of demurrage or tolls may be granted to vessels while waiting for cargo or for any other purpose at the places on the Midnapore Canal fixed by the Superintending Engineer for such purposes which include Kayali ghats, Canal ghats above and below every lock, and all free ghats on the 6th Reach of the Canal, Panskura to Dainan. Such exemption will not extend over a period of more than three months in each case.

If the person in charge of any vessel, on the completion of a voyage or on entering the canal, wishes his vessel to remain in any of the free ghats in the line of navigation he shall give up his toll ticket at the nearest toll station, specifying the particular ghat where he wishes to keep his vessel and shall take out a fresh ticket from such toll station before leaving such ghat. On failure to comply with this provision he shall be liable to demurrage charge as provided in this rule, which shall be recoverable as toll.

(4) Partial exemption from payment of demurrage is to be granted to boats thus :—

(a) by increasing the allowance of time for the voyage (see rule 3), which shall be calculated at the rate of one day for every 8 miles or portion of 8 miles to be traversed, together with one day for every 200 maunds of measurement or any portion of 200 maunds which is not less than 60 maunds—(from 60 to 190 maunds one day shall be allowed);

(b) by granting the following extra times for the purpose of bona-fide loading or unloading, or both, in the canals to—

		Days.
Cargo boats from	10 to 100 maunds of measurement ...	5
„ „ „	110 to 200 „ „ ...	8
„ „ „	210 to 300 „ „ ...	10
„ „ „	310 to 4 0 „ „ ...	12
„ „ „	410 to 500 „ „ ...	14
„ „	of over 500 maunds—for every additional 100 maunds. ...	3
Passenger boats of 10 maunds and upwards	...	5

9. Vessels are allowed to be moored while waiting for cargo or otherwise at the Kayali ghats, Canal ghats above and below every lock, and all free ghats on the 6th Reach of the Canal—Panskura to Dainan; but they are allowed to be loaded and unloaded only at the Kayali ghats and the free ghats in the 6th Reach. In any case they must complete the voyage within the time allowable to them under these rules otherwise demurrage will be charged.

The places at which vessels can be ordinarily loaded or unloaded in any Reach of the line of navigation are notified at the locks in the Reach, and no vessel without the previous permission of the Toll Collector (who should without delay inform the Executive Engineer of his permission having been granted), can be allowed to load or unload at any other place. Should any vessel be loaded or unloaded at any place other than those notified and without the said permission having been obtained, the person in charge of the vessel and the consignor or consignee of the goods shall, on conviction before a Magistrate, be liable to a fine not exceeding Rs. 10 for each offence.

10. No boat is permitted to moor in the outer channels of any lock. The channels to which this prohibition extends are as follows:—

Ulubaria.—Between the Ulubaria Lock and the Banspati Khal.
Bansbaria.—Between the Bansbaria Lock and the Damodar river.
Kultapara.—Between the Kultapara Lock and the Damodar river.
Kantapukur.—Between the Kantapukur Lock and the Rupnarayan river.
Dainan.—Between the Dainan Lock and the Rupnarayan river.
Panskura.—Between the Panskura east Lock and the Cossye river.
Panskura.—Between the Panskura west Lock and the Cossye river.
Mohunpur.—Between the Mohunpur Lock and the Cossye river.

No boat will be allowed, under any circumstances, to drop an anchor or to moor to both banks in any lock entrance or in the canal, except in the case of severe stress of weather.

11. Except with the written permission of a navigation officer, no goods or cargo may be deposited on any bank, berm or land appertaining to the canal at places other than those notified by the Superintending Engineer of the circle as available for such a purpose. Any person depositing goods in contravention of this rule shall, on conviction before a Magistrate, be liable to a fine not exceeding Rs. 50.

12. Navigation officers may order consignors or consignees or owners to remove their goods from the places notified as available for depositing cargo under rule 11. Goods not finally removed within a period of six days from the receipt of such order shall be liable to a charge of four annas per 100 maunds for each day or part of a day after the expiry of six days until finally removed.

13. Any vessel whose extreme dimensions exceed 130 feet in length and 19 feet in breadth including goods overhanging is prohibited from entering or passing along the line of navigation without the special permission in writing of the Executive Engineer; but straw boats of 20 feet width including overhangings (the overhangings beyond 19 feet being entirely straw) may be passed through the locks of the Main Canal; also no vessel exceeding 50 feet in length and 10½ feet in breadth including goods overhanging will be allowed to enter or pass along the Naraingar Distributary.

14. It will not be compulsory for the locks to be opened to single vessels of less than 500 maunds burden, except in the case of mail or despatch boats or passenger or cargo-boats in tow of steam-vessels; but the locks shall be opened for the passage of boats at least twice a day.

15. Mooring.—All vessels stopping at night must be moored head and stern to the bank of the channel or wherever specially ordered.

Only one line of vessels shall be allowed to pass along the canal or to make fast along and in a line with the canal banks or along and in a line with the banks of the river entrance to the locks, and no vessel shall be made fast, or be placed outside of vessels so secured, without the permission of a navigation officer. No vessel shall, however, be placed in such a position as to endanger the safety of other vessels, to obstruct their passage, or to impede the navigation.

16. Rule of the road.—When under sail, vessels are to keep in the centre of the channel. When being tracked, vessels are, wherever practicable, to keep to starboard or the right side of the channel. Vessels meeting in the canal, except when being tracked, must keep to their right when passing, and when one vessel overtakes another, the former must pass on the left. When vessels, one of which is sailing and the other steaming, meet in a canal, the sailing vessel must keep to the leeward. No steamer passing any vessel must proceed at a greater speed than half speed.

17. Lights and signals.—All vessels, whether travelling or moored in the line of navigation, must, between sunset and sunrise, carry a white light in a lantern on the forepart of the vessel where it can be distinctly seen from all sides. All steam-vessels in motion shall carry the lights prescribed by the Board of Trade Regulations. Barges or boats attached to a steam-vessel, whether in motion or moored, shall carry the white light prescribed above.

Where signals are used, no vessel shall enter or attempt to enter the entrance channel of a lock when a red flag or red light is displayed at the end of the lock next her, "but shall wait until the signal intimating 'all clear' is displayed." Steam-vessels approaching a lock shall whistle when a mile distant, and shall continue to whistle at intervals, until the signal intimating that the lock is open or closed is displayed, or, if no signals are used, until arrival.

18. Crews and attendants.—Every vessel, when stationary, shall be securely fastened, and shall at all times have some person in attendance on board. Every vessel in motion shall have a sufficient crew.

19. Fittings.—Vessels must have their masts, high awnings, and funnels fitted so that they can be let down with ease and speed, and no bamboos or poles shall be erected on or by vessels when at anchor.

20. Conduct of navigation.—Vessels are prohibited from making fast to any portion of the lock-gates or gearing, and steamers are prohibited from making fast the tow-lines of their boats until the latter are clear of the locks. Steamers are prohibited from lashing boats or barges alongside while proceeding within locks. No towing rope of a greater length than 100 feet is to be used in the canal. The throwing of cinders into the canal is prohibited; they are to be deposited on the banks.

21. In every case of wreck or obstruction of the channel by sunken vessels, the Supervisor of the line of navigation, or of a part of it, may call upon the person in charge of the vessel to remove the same without delay, and shall give every reasonable assistance towards so doing. But should the owner of the vessel or raft be not forthcoming, or should he not use reasonable expedition in removing the obstruction, or should he decline or fail to use proper assistance which may be offered to him by the Supervisor, this officer may, under the provisions of section 14 of the "Canals Act," undertake the removal of the obstruction himself at the cost of the owner of the boat, recovering the expense in the manner prescribed in section 9 of the Act.

In the case of emergency and in the temporary absence of the Supervisor from the place where the obstruction occurred, any navigation officer present must at once report the matter to the Supervisor.

22. If the Supervisor be unable to ascertain the name and place of business or of the abode of the owner of the cargo of any vessel or boats seized under the Act, he shall notify the seizure in the most public manner available.

23. In the event of any damage or injury being occasioned to the canal works by wilfulness or negligence on the part of any person in charge of a vessel, the navigation officers may detain the vesssel at any point within the canal for a period not exceeding 48 hours: provided that, within that period, the navigation officers shall lodge a complaint against such person in charge of the vessel before a Magistrate under section 16 of the Act.

24. For any contravention of rules 15, 16, 17, 18, 19 and 20, the person in charge of the vessel shall, on conviction before a Magistrate, be liable to a fine not exceeding Rs. 50.

25. The term "navigation officers" as used in these rules shall include all persons appointed under section 8 of the "Canals Act, 1864", and all Public Works Officers or subordinates in charge of the canal not below the grade of Sub-Overseer.

26. The canal and its branch may be closed once a year for effecting the necessary repairs to them on one month's notice of the intention so to close them being given; but in the event of any sudden emergency they may be closed at any time without prior notice, and no claim in such case by owners of vessels or others for compensation on account of detention shall be entertained.

HIGH COURT NOTICE.

General Letter No. 6.

To

THE DISTRICT JUDGE OF

Dated Calcutta, the 4th May 1917.

SIR,

HIGH COUR
Civil

Rules 4 and 6 of Order XIII of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, require certain particulars to be endorsed by the court on documents produced as evidence in a suit. Occasionally, however, though it may be rarely, documents are produced which are of great historic or antiquarian value, such as old sanads or grants, and it is obvious that such documents may be seriously injured by the usual endorsements. A case has recently been brought to the notice of the Judges in which a too rigid adherence to rules intended for the great mass of ordinary documents has led to an old and valuable State Sanad being subjected to flagrant maltreatment. The Judges desire, therefore, that the following observations may be borne in mind by all courts.

2. It is no doubt important that the identity of a document produced in court and acted upon should be placed beyond question in view of a possible appeal or of possible future proceedings, and in fact the Privy Council have very recently drawn attention to the "wholesome provision" contained in Order XIII, rule 4, and have laid it down that they "will, in order to prevent injustice, be obliged, in future, on the hearing of Indian appeals, to refuse to read or permit to be used any document not endorsed in the manner required." (Sadik Husain Khan versus Hashim Ali Khan, L. R. 43 I. A., 212, at page 237; I. L. R., 38 All., 627, at pages 663-664.)

3. The rules on the subject must of course be strictly followed in dealing with all documents of the kind which ordinarily come before the courts, such as the Privy Council had in contemplation. But cases so exceptional as those now under consideration admit of exceptional treatment, and when a document of historical or antiquarian interest is in question, the court before which it is produced should make every possible endeavour to prevent its being defaced by endorsements and exhibit marks or by having the Seal of the Court impressed upon it. If the presiding

Judge will use his common sense, some means of avoiding such disfigurement will probably suggest itself. The parties will probably agree to a photographic copy being substituted for the original, or the document may be enclosed in a sealed cover, or in a locked and sealed box, the necessary particulars being endorsed on the outside. If other means fail, careful measures should be taken for the safe custody of the document pending instructions from higher authority.

I have the honour to be,

SIR,

Your most obedient servant,

H. M. VEITCH,

Registrar.

INDIAN DEFENCE FORCE.

RESOLUTION.

No. 777.—The Government of India have noted with concern the disappointing response which has been made to the opportunity afforded to the people of India of enrolling themselves for service in the Indian Defence Force; and since they have also observed, in the press and elsewhere, that the conditions of that service have been a good deal criticised, they deem it advisable to recapitulate briefly the circumstances in which the scheme was initiated, and to explain the necessity of the conditions which at present apply to it.

Owing to the prolongation of the war, and the enforcement of universal military service in England, it was thought desirable to impose some obligation of a similar nature upon every European British subject of military age in India. Under these circumstances, though there was no necessity for a corresponding measure applicable to Indian subjects of His Majesty, the Governor-General in Council was anxious that the opportunity should be afforded to Indians also to enrol themselves in the Indian Defence Force. He was aware that there had for long been a desire that volunteering should be thrown open to Indian as well as to European British subjects, and was assured that, if that opportunity could be afforded to them, a ready and enthusiastic response would be made. Since, with the passing of the Indian Defence Force Act, volunteering on the old basis practically ceased to exist, it was proposed to provide other means by which Indians could come forward and offer their services for the defence of India as a part of the general military organisation of the country, and this proposal was accepted by the Indian Legislative Council and embodied in the Act.

It should be obvious that, during the progress of the greatest war in history, it was not possible to reorganise or modify radically the general conditions governing the military service of the country, and that any endeavour to do so might only result in deferring the day of final victory to which India, in common with the rest of His Majesty's Dominions, is so earnestly looking forward. It has therefore been a source of keen disappointment to the Governor-General in Council to observe, from utterances on the public platform and in the press, that the conditions of service in the Defence Force, which are the same as those applying to His Majesty's Indian forces in the regular army, have been represented as being such as to deter volunteers from coming forward for the defence of their country.

The leaders of Indian opinion are doubtless aware that the pay of the Territorial force in England was the same as that of the regular army, and that men of position and means in the United Kingdom, and even in distant parts of the Empire, did not think it derogatory to join the ranks both of the Territorials and of the new army and to serve as private soldiers shoulder to shoulder with those of other classes; and many of them have given their lives in such service in France and elsewhere during the present war. They asked no questions as to pay or other conditions; they put forward no pretensions or demands; their one ambition was to serve their country in her hour of need, and their memories will ever be honoured by the nations in whose defence they fought.

The Governor-General in Council was assured that a similar ambition prevailed in India, and that it was only necessary to throw open the ranks of the Defence Force to Indians to secure a hearty response. At a time when military organisations are strained to the uttermost, it was not possible to provide for the training of an indefinite number of small units all over the country on such a scale as to place a newly constituted force of this character upon an efficient basis. Endeavour was, however, made to afford such facilities as were possible to those who were anxious to enrol themselves in the service of their country, and arrangements were made in the first instance for recruiting six battalions of a thousand men each at convenient centres. It was fully anticipated that further expansion might be required as the movement developed, but it was thought that a reasonable commencement might be made on these lines, and the military authorities were satisfied that this was all that they could undertake at the outset. It is, therefore, a matter of disappointment to the Government of India to find that, during the first two months after the passing of the Act, only 300 men have been enrolled in place of the 6,000 for which preparations were made. It is felt that all who take an interest in the Defence Force, and believe in those sentiments of patriotism which have brought it into being, and who have the good name of India at heart, will be disheartened to learn that out of the six months for which recruiting is open so much time should have elapsed without any adequate response being made.

The Government of India recognise that the conditions of service in the Defence Force may be open to criticism in some respects; but, as has already been stated, it was impossible to recast the existing organisation during the continued pressure of a great emergency, and all that could be attempted was to engraft the new force on to the Great Indian Army which was already in being.

There are doubtless particular conditions of service in the Indian Army which may be thought to be unsuitable to men who enrol themselves in the new force, and the Government of India have no hesitation in declaring that considerations of this sort will always be taken into account, and that, so far as is consistent with the maintenance of the necessary standard of discipline, sympathetic treatment will be accorded to all those who come forward voluntarily to serve their country.

The Government of India are also aware of Indian aspirations with reference to commissioned rank. It is, however, perfectly well known that this matter is separately under consideration, and is engaging the earnest and sympathetic attention of Government. The whole framework of the Indian army is affected by that discussion, and it must be obvious to every thinking man that the enrolment of a purely temporary force constituted on a voluntary basis owing to the emergencies of a great war could not justify the hurried determination of so important and difficult a question in respect of which the Government of India are not the ultimate arbiters.

In conclusion, the Government of India deem it expedient to draw attention once more to the words of His Excellency the Viceroy in the speech which brought to a close the last meeting of the Indian Legislative Council—

"The Act is confessedly a war measure and therefore temporary, but it will prove a most invaluable experiment. We shall have—it is no secret, for he who runs may read—to re-organise our Indian army after this war, and some form of second line force will probably be required. In the Indian Defence Force, raised temporarily under stress of war, there may lie the germ of such new second line. Do not ask us at such a moment as this to give answers to problems which will have to be solved at a time when there is more leisure. When that time arrives, then criticise, as you will, the Government in respect of its policy. But for the moment I would assure you that all the subjects of your criticism are engaging our most sympathetic consideration, and I would ask your co-operation in making this present scheme a success, but do not let it be marred on the ground that it does not contain all that you would desire."

These words were accepted in the spirit in which they were offered by the non-official members of the Council, and constitute a sufficient pledge of the earnest consideration by Government of the future needs of India. It is not claimed that the present scheme is perfect; it is admittedly in the nature of a makeshift; but it is the best that could be devised in the conditions obtaining at the moment, and it has great possibilities. That such a scheme, conceived in the general interests of Imperial defence, should, in spite of its modest dimensions, prove a hopeless failure at such a time and in a country which, whatever its deficiencies, is not lacking in man power, can hardly fail to create an impression throughout the Empire prejudicial to the good name of India. It is, therefore, the sincere hope of the Governor General in Council that the leaders of public opinion in this country will realise their full responsibilities in this matter, and take all possible steps forthwith to make the recruitment of these Indian units worthy of the name and aspirations of India.

ORDER.—Ordered, that this Resolution be published under a notification in Part I of the Gazette of India. Ordered also, that it should be communicated to all Local Governments and Administrations.

THE WORK OF THE FOREST DEPARTMENT IN INDIA.

Edited by R. S. TROUP, Esq., Assistant Inspector-General of Forests.

Super-royal 8vo, paper cover, 70 pp., with 13 full-page half-tone illustrations

Price Four annas.

It may safely be said that there is hardly any Government Department in India whose work and aims are so little realized by the general public as are those of the Forest Department. For one thing the work of the forest officer lies for the most part in remote places, so that few have any knowledge of it. For another the practical results of forest work are apparent only after long periods of time, so that the forest officer has to cultivate the habit of thinking in half centuries and to be content that the full effect of his labours shall be visible only to future generations.

This publication is issued with the object of bringing together in popular form the main facts connected with the work of the Forest Department in India and of sketching the outlook for future expansion, particular attention being paid to the possibility of the local development of industries which depend to a greater or less extent on a plentiful supply of forest products. Information of these subjects is to be found scattered throughout the annual reports on forest administration which are issued by Provincial Governments and in the various publications of the Forest Research Institute, Dehra Dun, but these are not readily available to the general public, and so it is hoped that this memorandum, which has been prepared by Mr. R. S. Troup, Assistant Inspector-General of Forests, with the assistance of selected officers of the Forest Department, may prove useful to those interested in the subject.

DARJEELING, THE 16TH MAY 1917.

RESOLUTION—No. 552T.R.

READ—

A report on a survey and census of the cattle of Bengal by Mr. J. R. Blackwood, I.C.S.

IN 1906 the Government of India drew the attention of Local Governments to a proposal made by the Inspector-General of the Civil Veterinary Department for the gradual preparation by the officers of the Department of a cattle survey throughout India. At that time the number of Veterinary Officers was very limited in Bengal and it was found impossible to take them away from their duties in connection with epidemics in order that they might begin the survey. In 1911 the Government of India decided that the detailed cattle survey throughout India should be preceded in each of the major provinces by a general preliminary survey of cattle on non-technical and economic lines, and they suggested that where officers of the Veterinary Department were not available the survey might be conducted by officers of the Indian Civil Service. Mr. J. R. Blackwood, I.C.S., was placed on special duty in November 1911 to carry out a general survey of cattle in Eastern Bengal and Assam; on the redistribution of Provinces he was appointed Director of Agriculture, Bengal, in May 1912, and he was directed to complete the survey in Assam as well as in the reconstituted Province of Bengal, and in consequence he was unable to submit his report until September 1915.

2. Apart from the figures which were collected by the Settlement Department in a few districts there were hitherto no statistics of an approximately reliable nature regarding cattle in Bengal. Owing to this fact and owing to the fact that there are no distinct breeds of indigenous cattle which are found to be widely distributed, Mr. Blackwood's survey was necessarily of a more detailed and technical nature than was at first contemplated. His statement of measurements of good cattle found in each district (Appendix X) was prepared from measurements taken by a Veterinary Officer and is probably accurate: as Mr. Blackwood explains, the cattle measured were not average animals but were selected as representing the types which are preferred. On the other hand the census figures do not claim complete accuracy as there was no machinery for the supervision requisite for securing such accuracy. The report is a valuable contribution to the knowledge of a subject on which previous information was very limited, and the Governor in Council desires to acknowledge the care which Mr. Blackwood has taken in studying the problems which presented themselves. In reviewing the report the Governor in Council has sought to define the conditions prevailing in Bengal, the explanation of those conditions, the extent to which the cattle now in use in Bengal serve the needs of the people, the objects which should be aimed at in the future, and the best means of obtaining those objects.

3. According to the figures compiled by Mr. Blackwood, the number of cattle in Bengal is 25,355,838. These figures include buffaloes, which amount to about 4 per cent. of the total. The number of human beings in Bengal is about 45½ million, thus for every 100 human beings in Bengal, there are 56 head of cattle, while in the British Isles for every 100 human beings there are 26 head of cattle. The conditions are of course widely different, but the comparison is not without interest.

4. Probably the first points which strike a stranger visiting rural Bengal are the fertility of the soil and the inferior quality of the cattle. In the plains of Bengal there is no tract in which the indigenous cattle are essentially different from those of any other tract: those of the Western Districts are larger than those of the Eastern Districts, but they are always small and generally underfed. Cattle are more numerous in the Burdwan, Presidency and Rajshahi Divisions than in the Dacca and Chittagong Divisions. Out of 8,087,872 bullocks 12·5 per cent. are shown as imported, while out of 7,110,634 cows the percentage of imported animals is only 3·7. The imported cattle come mainly from Bihar and the United Provinces, but Manipuri bullocks are imported into Tippera district. The imported bullocks are stronger than local bullocks but their average life is much shorter. The milk yield of imported cows deteriorates when they are brought to Bengal, and the average annual yield of a good local cow, when a sufficient quantity of milk is given to the calf in the first 3 months, is less than 3 seers a day. The supply of good bulls is insufficient, and when good bulls are provided adequate arrangements are not made for feeding and exercising them : consequently extensive use is made of inferior and immature bulls. There is a tendency towards the reduction of the area available for grazing and the most valuable fodder crops do not grow well in the districts of Eastern Bengal. In the Presidency and Rajshahi Divisions and in Burdwan district there is a tendency for buffaloes to replace bullocks for cart traction.

5. These conditions are largely explained by economic causes. The generally inferior quality of the plough cattle is due to the fertility of the soil and to the smallness of holdings. Where the cultivators have limited needs and can get a good crop without deep ploughing they are content to employ weak cattle. Recent enquiries in Dacca district show that the average area of holdings is 2·80 acres and that there are 2 plough bullocks for every 7 acres of cultivated land. In his report on 'Cattle and Dairying in the Punjab' published in 1910, Mr. Stow estimated that there were in the Punjab 2 plough-bullocks for every 15 acres of cultivated land. The practice of combination in the ploughing of land is followed to a limited extent in Bengal, but its adoption on a large scale requires a development of the co-operative spirit which has not yet been reached. The tenant of a small holding naturally prefers to have his own plough and cattle, and when the holding is small he does not consider it worth his while to keep and feed plough cattle of a quality superior to the lowest which is necessary for the work he has for them. There are more cattle in Western Bengal and Rajshahi Division than in the districts of the Dacca and Chittagong Divisions because in the latter area the proportion of cultivated land is higher, and extensive floods make it unprofitable to keep, during the rains, cattle in excess of the minimum number required : moreover in the latter area carts are much fewer. Mr. Blackwood is no doubt correct in his view that the damp climate of Bengal is unfavourable to the development of strong and vigorous cattle, and it is obvious that the portions of the Eastern Districts which are liable to annual floods do not admit of the exercise which is required for young animals. The deficiency of pasture, especially in the Dacca and Chittagong Divisions, also makes the country unsuited for cattle-breeding. The decrease in pasture is due to the high prices obtained for food-crops, and to the consequently greater profit made by cultivating land than by leaving it fallow for grazing. It must be borne in mind, however, that an abundance of pasture land, if accompanied by a damp climate, is practically no safeguard against the rapid deterioration of cattle. This is well exemplified by the experience of the neighbouring province of Assam The want of good bulls and the use of immature bulls, and the insufficiency of the milk supplied to calves are other important causes of the poor breed of cattle in Bengal.

6. As regards the degree in which existing conditions meet the needs of the people, there are two common complaints, viz., that the price of milk is unduly high and that cows yield less milk and are less numerous than they used to be. These results are commonly attributed to the decrease of pasture and it is frequently taken for granted that an increase in the area available for grazing would restore a golden age of numerous cows and cheap milk. The Governor in Council agrees with Mr. Blackwood that, apart from the very serious difficulties involved in any scheme for converting arable land into pasture, it is improbable that such a policy would have the results which are generally expected from it : the cattle would perhaps increase in number, but they would soon become too numerous for the pasture to support. The facts observed in other parts of India do not warrant the conclusion that plentiful grazing and good cattle are necessarily found together : Mr. Blackwood has referred to Champaran district in Bihar where good grazing is plentiful and the cattle are said to be very inferior, and to Nasik in Bombay where there is no grazing and the cattle are splendid. Similarly the Report on the cattle survey in Assam shows, as already noted, that a country which contains extensive grazing may support very poor cattle. As regards bullocks, Mr. Blackwood remarks that prices have doubled within the last 10 years, but his report does not indicate that there is any general dissatisfaction with the quality of the animals available, or that people who can afford to buy superior cattle have any difficulty in obtaining imported cattle to suit them.

7. There are reported to be no professional breeders of cattle in Bengal, except to a limited extent in the districts of Jalpaiguri and Malda, and in view of the climatic conditions of Bengal it is unlikely that any example which might be set by Government at cattle farms owned by the State would result in the creation of an industry of cattle-breeding on a large scale. The lines on which an improvement of the cattle of the province seems to be attainable under existing conditions are the provision of superior bulls and the consequent abolition of the use of immature bulls, and the introduction of an improved system of cattle management, of which the most essential points are the provision of a sufficient quantity of milk to young calves, and an economical system of stall feeding by the development of fodder crops.

8. Mr. Blackwood's recommendations for attaining these objects are first the multiplication of farms like the Government farm which was opened at Rangpur in 1913, and second, the provision from these farms and from the Garo Hills of suitable bulls in selected areas, the bulls being kept in the immediate charge of panchayats under the general control of demonstrators of the Agricultural Department. He proposes to provide in these areas a sufficient number of bulls to make it practicable to insist on the castration of all the inferior bulls. Mr. Blackwood realises that his recommendations involve very large expenditure, but he suggests that if Government farms can be conducted at a profit, private enterprise may be tempted to establish similar farms ; and as regards the provision and maintenance of bulls in selected areas he suggests that this is a proper object of expenditure for District Boards, and that if the experiment is successful private people may be induced to keep good bulls and may be able to charge fees for their use.

In his advice for the conduct of Government farms Mr. Blackwood lays stress on two points. First, he is strongly of opinion that the basis of work should be the indigenous cattle of the province ; and that the best indigenous cows, as judged by their milk yield, should be selected and crossed with superior bulls of a nearly allied species. He lays particular stress on his advice that the animal produced must be one which the ordinary cultivator of Bengal will be prepared to use and to feed. Secondly, he advises that the farms should have dairying and the production of fodder and other crops as their objects as well as cattle-breeding, his main object being that the farms shall be paying concerns and thus capable of extensive multiplication. The Rangpur Cattle Farm was opened in 1913, and Mr. Blackwood, as Director of Agriculture, conducted it on these lines for a period of three years : the Governor in Council has recently reviewed the progress which has been made at the farm and has decided that too much has been attempted. While he appreciates the force of Mr. Blackwood's arguments against endeavouring to introduce foreign stock unsuitable for the climate and conditions of Bengal, he is impressed by the facts that the people in Bengal, who have the highest ideals about their plough-cattle, generally prefer imported animals, and that the indigenous bullocks are rarely suitable for heavy cart work. Therefore it appears doubtful whether any substantial advance will be made without improving the local breeds by crossing. Mr. Blackwood asserts that the ideal type must be an animal which the ordinary cultivator of Bengal will be prepared to use and feed : the Governor in Council accepts this view with the modification involved by substituting the word 'superior' for 'ordinary.' When the use of a superior plough is demonstrated before a large number of cultivators the majority will say that the results are very satisfactory but are of no use to them because their bullocks could not draw the plough, but there are generally a few among them who have superior cattle, to whom the demonstration is of practical interest : the Governor in Council considers that the ideal type should be an animal which will appeal to the latter class of cultivator and that the best chance of arousing in the average cultivator a desire to improve his stock lies in the demonstration of results obtained by his neighbour who has higher ideals.

The Governor in Council has therefore decided that work in the Rangpur Farm shall for the present be concentrated on experiment with the object of discovering the most suitable bull for crossing with indigenous cows, and that dairy farming must for the present be subsidiary to this object, while the demonstration of the financial success of mixed farming with a view to the multiplication of breeding farms must await the discovery of the bull which is most suitable for the country. With this object in view he has ordered that selected indigenous cows shall be used as the basis of the experiments and that there shall be two classes of bulls, local and imported, the latter being selected animals of the milking breed of Hansi cattle : there will thus be two distinct herds, the pure indigenous herd and the cross-bred herd. When the results obtained from either of these herds are found satisfactory the time will have come for schemes for multiplying the bulls on a large scale. As regards the milk produced on the farm the Governor in Council has given orders to ensure that the young calves shall not be deprived of a sufficient supply owing to a desire to show profits from dairying. Fodder will be grown on the farm for the use of the cattle and the study of questions relating to the improvement of fodder crops will be one of the primary objects of the farm.

DISTRICT REPORTS ON WEATHER AND CROPS

For the week ending on the 21st May 1917.

Summary.—During the week under report light to moderate rain was almost general throughout the Province, which favoured the growth of the bhadoi crops. Agricultural operations have also been greatly facilitated by the rainfall. Preparation of lands for winter rice has commenced. Sowing of autumn paddy and jute continues in Western Bengal but weeding is in progress in Eastern Bengal. The prospects of standing crops are good. In some places of the Dacca district, however, paddy plants are being damaged by insects called lonapok and pamari. Some injury is also being caused to paddy by insects in Tippera. Cattle-disease is reported from eight districts. The average price of common rice for the Province remained stationary as compared with that of the previous week.

II. The draft will be taken into consideration on or after the 15th June 1917, and any objection or suggestion which may be received by the undersigned before that date will be duly considered.

F. A. A. COWLEY,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

Draft Rules.

1. Every vessel entering or passing along the Midnapore Canal, or its branch, the Naraingar Distributary, shall be liable to measurement for the purpose of ascertaining the amount of toll the vessel should pay according to the schedule of rates authorised by Government to be charged on this line of navigation.

2. The tonnage of every vessel, except loose timber and rafts, whether laden or empty, shall, for the purposes of the "Canals Act, 1864," and of these rules, be determined by the following measurements:—

(a) The product of half the length of the vessel, measured along the water-line and round the contour of the vessel from centre of stem to centre of stern-post, multiplied by the interior greatest breadth of the vessel or by the greatest breadth of the cargo, should this overhang, or, as in the case of logs, be lashed alongside, multiplied by the greatest interior depth from the water-line to the bottom of the vessel, is to be taken as equal to the number of maunds upon which toll shall be levied.

(b) The measurement of the length is to be made in feet, rejecting fractions of a foot, and the measurement of the breadth and depth in feet and quarters of feet, rejecting portions of less than a quarter of a foot.

(c) In calculating the amount of toll to be levied, any portion of 100 maunds less than 10 maunds is to be omitted.

(d) In calculating the amount of toll to be levied on steamers, an allowance of one-third the total maundage, as found under clauses (a), (b) and (c), is to be made for engine space.

3. Every vessel entering or passing along the said line of navigation shall be furnished with a ticket on paying the prescribed toll. The ticket shall specify the station at which it has been issued, the name of the person in charge of the vessel, the date on which the voyage commenced, the point to which the vessel may proceed on the line of navigation, the maundage of the vessel, the amount of toll charged, the number of days allowed for the voyage, and the date of such last day. The number of days so allowed without additional payment shall be calculated at the rate of one day for every eight miles, or portion of eight miles, to be traversed, together with one day for every 200 maunds of measurement. In the case of rafts, one day for every five miles shall be allowed.

4. Toll may be paid at the first station, either for the entire number of toll-stations on the line of navigation or for any less number of stations.

5. The tickets thus given may be demanded for inspection by any duly authorised navigation officer, and must be kept on board and at hand for that purpose. They must be shown at each toll-station the vessel has to pass as a passport that no further payment of toll is to be demanded. The tickets shall be delivered up at the last toll-station.

Navigation officers shall have authority to check-measure vessels whenever they consider it necessary, and if the toll due according to the check-measurement exceeds that originally paid, the difference shall be payable at the toll-station of check-measurement, or at the next toll-station at which the vessel may arrive if the check-measurement was made at some point other than a toll-station. The officer collecting the difference shall endorse the ticket showing the measurements, and note the amount recovered in excess of the toll originally paid.

6. Owners or hirers of vessels may compound, by the payment of a fixed sum, for the use of the whole or any portion of the line of navigation for any period that may be agreed upon, not exceeding one year. In such case the vessel shall be furnished with a ticket showing the amount of toll paid, the period for which the toll has been compounded, and the limits of the line of navigation within which the vessel may pass. Such ticket shall be kept on board the vessel, and shall be produced when required under rule 5, but shall be given up only on the date of the expiry of the period for which it is granted, and at the station from which it is issued.

7. Duplicates of lost tickets of which the numbers and dates of entry can be satisfactorily established, will be granted by the officers in charge of toll-stations on payment of a fee of one rupee.

8. Every vessel, which does not complete its voyage within the number of days allowed by rule 3, shall, for each day or part of a day in excess, be liable to an extra charge equal to 8 annas per 100 maunds, calculated on the maundage of the vessel, as determined by rule 2. The charge for demurrage on timbers and rafts shall be as follows:—

Timber in rafts or loose	...	One anna per timber per day.
Bamboos in floats	...	Two annas per 100 per day.
Bullahs in rafts	...	Eight annas per 100 per day.

Provided as follows:—

(1) Exemption from payment of demurrage may be granted to vessels detained in the canal or its branch by stress of weather or heavy traffic, steamers broken down and boats damaged, if immediate notice of the cause of detention be given at the nearest toll-station for the information of the Executive Engineer.

(2) Missionary boats are exempted from payment of demurrage for lying in the canal or its branch.

(3) Exemption from payment of demurrage or tolls may be granted to vessels while waiting for cargo or for any other purpose at the places on the Midnapore Canal fixed by the Superintending Engineer for such purposes which include Kayali ghats, Canal ghats above and below every lock, and all free ghats on the 6th Reach of the Canal, Panskura to Dainan. Such exemption will not extend over a period of more than three months in each case.

If the person in charge of any vessel, on the completion of a voyage or on entering the canal, wishes his vessel to remain in any of the free ghats in the line of navigation he shall give up his toll ticket at the nearest toll station, specifying the particular ghat where he wishes to keep his vessel and shall take out a fresh ticket from such toll station before leaving such ghat. On failure to comply with this provision he shall be liable to demurrage charge as provided in this rule, which shall be recoverable as toll.

(4) Partial exemption from payment of demurrage is to be granted to boats thus:—

(a) by increasing the allowance of time for the voyage (see rule 3), which shall be calculated at the rate of one day for every 8 miles or portion of 8 miles to be traversed, together with one day for every 200 maunds of measurement or any portion of 200 maunds which is not less than 60 maunds—(from 60 to 190 maunds one day shall be allowed);

(b) by granting the following extra times for the purpose of bona-fide loading or unloading, or both, in the canals to—

9. Vessels are allowed to be moored while waiting for cargo or otherwise at the Kayali ghats, Canal ghats above and below every lock, and all free ghats on the 6th Reach of the Canal—Panskura to Dainan; but they are allowed to be loaded and unloaded only at the Kayali ghats and the free ghats in the 6th Reach. In any case they must complete the voyage within the time allowable to them under these rules, otherwise demurrage will be charged.

The places at which vessels can be ordinarily loaded or unloaded in any Reach of the line of navigation are notified at the locks in the Reach, and no vessel without the previous permission of the Toll Collector (who should without delay inform the Executive Engineer of his permission having been granted), can be allowed to load or unload at any other place. Should any vessel be loaded or unloaded at any place other than those notified and without the said permission having been obtained, the person in charge of the vessel and the consignor or consignee of the goods shall, on conviction before a Magistrate, be liable to a fine not exceeding Rs. 10 for each offence.

10. No boat is permitted to moor in the outer channels of any lock. The channels to which this prohibition extends are as follows:—

Ulubaria.—Between the Ulubaria Lock and the Banspati Khal.
Bansbaria.—Between the Bansbaria Lock and the Damodar river.
Kultapara.—Between the Kultapara Lock and the Damodar river.
Kantapukur.—Between the Kantapukur Lock and the Rupnarayan river.
Dainan.—Between the Dainan Lock and the Rupnarayan river.
Panskura.—Between the Panskura east Lock and the Cossye river.
Panskura.—Between the Panskura west Lock and the Cossye river.
Mohunpur.—Between the Mohunpur Lock and the Cossye river.

No boat will be allowed, under any circumstances, to drop an anchor or to moor to both banks in any lock entrance or in the canal, except in the case of severe stress of weather.

11. Except with the written permission of a navigation officer, no goods or cargo may be deposited on any bank, berm or land appertaining to the canal at places other than those notified by the Superintending Engineer of the circle as available for such a purpose. Any person depositing goods in contravention of this rule shall, on conviction before a Magistrate, be liable to a fine not exceeding Rs. 50.

12. Navigation officers may order consignors or consignees or owners to remove their goods from the places notified as available for depositing cargo under rule 11. Goods not finally removed within a period of six days from the receipt of such order shall be liable to a charge of four annas per 100 maunds for each day or part of a day after the expiry of six days until finally removed.

13. Any vessel whose extreme dimensions exceed 130 feet in length and 19 feet in breadth including goods overhanging is prohibited from entering or passing along the line of navigation without the special permission in writing of the Executive Engineer; but straw boats of 20 feet width including overhangings (the overhangings beyond 19 feet being entirely straw) may be passed through the locks of the Main Canal; also no vessel exceeding 50 feet in length and 10½ feet in breadth including goods overhanging will be allowed to enter or pass along the Naraingar Distributary.

14. It will not be compulsory for the locks to be opened to single vessels of less than 500 maunds burden, except in the case of mail or despatch boats or passenger or cargo-boats in tow of steam-vessels; but the locks shall be opened for the passage of boats at least twice a day.

15. Mooring.—All vessels stopping at night must be moored head and stern to the bank of the channel or wherever specially ordered.

Only one line of vessels shall be allowed to pass along the canal or to make fast along and in a line with the canal banks or along and in a line with the banks of the river entrance to the locks, and no vessel shall be made fast, or be placed outside of vessels so secured, without the permission of a navigation officer. No vessel shall, however, be placed in such a position as to endanger the safety of other vessels, to obstruct their passage, or to impede the navigation.

16. Rule of the road.—When under sail, vessels are to keep in the centre of the channel. When being tracked, vessels are, wherever practicable, to keep to starboard or the right side of the channel. Vessels meeting in the canal, except when being tracked, must keep to their right when passing, and when one vessel overtakes another, the former must pass on the left. When vessels, one of which is sailing and the other steaming, meet in a canal, the sailing vessel must keep to the leeward. No steamer passing any vessel must proceed at a greater speed than half speed.

17. Lights and signals.—All vessels, whether travelling or moored in the line of navigation, must, between sunset and sunrise, carry a white light in a lantern on the forepart of the vessel where it can be distinctly seen from all sides. All steam-vessels in motion shall carry the lights prescribed by the Board of Trade Regulations. Barges or boats attached to a steam-vessel, whether in motion or moored, shall carry the white light prescribed above.

Where signals are used, no vessel shall enter or attempt to enter the entrance channel of a lock when a red flag or red light is displayed at the end of the lock next her, "but shall wait until the signal intimating 'all clear' is displayed." Steam-vessels approaching a lock shall whistle when a mile distant, and shall continue to whistle at intervals, until the signal intimating that the lock is open or closed is displayed, or, if no signals are used, until arrival.

18. Crews and attendants.—Every vessel, when stationary, shall be securely fastened, and shall at all times have some person in attendance on board. Every vessel in motion shall have a sufficient crew.

19. Fittings.—Vessels must have their masts, high awnings, and funnels fitted so that they can be let down with ease and speed, and no bamboos or poles shall be erected on or by vessels when at anchor.

20. Conduct of navigation.—Vessels are prohibited from making fast to any portion of the lock-gates or gearing, and steamers are prohibited from making fast the tow-lines of their boats until the latter are clear of the locks. Steamers are prohibited from lashing boats or barges alongside while proceeding within locks. No towing rope of a greater length than 100 feet is to be used in the canal. The throwing of cinders into the canal is prohibited; they are to be deposited on the banks.

21. In every case of wreck or obstruction of the channel by sunken vessels, the Supervisor of the line of navigation, or of a part of it, may call upon the person in charge of the vessel to remove the same without delay, and shall give every reasonable assistance towards so doing. But should the owner of the vessel or raft be not forthcoming, or should he not use reasonable expedition in removing the obstruction, or should he decline or fail to use proper assistance which may be offered to him by the Supervisor, this officer may, under the provisions of section 14 of the "Canals Act," undertake the removal of the obstruction himself at the cost of the owner of the boat, recovering the expense in the manner prescribed in section 9 of the Act.

In the case of emergency and in the temporary absence of the Supervisor from the place where the obstruction occurred, any navigation officer present must at once report the matter to the Supervisor.

22. If the Supervisor be unable to ascertain the name and place of business or of the abode of the owner of the cargo of any vessel or boats seized under the Act, he shall notify the seizure in the most public manner available.

23. In the event of any damage or injury being occasioned to the canal works by wilfulness or negligence on the part of any person in charge of a vessel, the navigation officers may detain the vesssel at any point within the canal for a period not exceeding 48 hours: provided that, within that period, the navigation officers shall lodge a complaint against such person in charge of the vessel before a Magistrate under section 16 of the Act.

24. For any contravention of rules 15, 16, 17, 18, 19 and 20, the person in charge of the vessel shall, on conviction before a Magistrate, be liable to a fine not exceeding Rs. 50.

25. The term "navigation officers" as used in these rules shall include all persons appointed under section 8 of the "Canals Act, 1864", and all Public Works Officers or subordinates in charge of the canal not below the grade of Sub-Overseer.

26. The canal and its branch may be closed once a year for effecting the necessary repairs to them on one month's notice of the intention so to close them being given; but in the event of any sudden emergency they may be closed at any time without prior notice, and no claim in such case by owners of vessels or others for compensation on account of detention shall be entertained.

RESOLUTION—By the Government of India, Department of Commerce and Industry.

IN conformity with the scheme adopted in the United Kingdom, the Government of India prescribed in April 1916 certain forms for the registration of claims of British and British Indian subjects against enemy subjects and enemy Governments, and informed the public in a Press Communiqué, issued on the 27th of that month, that persons or firms desiring to register their claims should apply in the appropriate form to Custodians of Enemy Property, or, where no such officer is appointed, to the Local Government or Administration within whose jurisdiction they reside or carry on business. The Government of India regard it as important that the registration should be as complete as possible, and accordingly request that persons concerned will help in enabling Government to secure the object by putting forward their claims.

ORDERED that a copy of the foregoing Resolution be forwarded to all Local Governments and Administrations, to the Foreign and Political and Home Departments, and that it be published in the Gazette of India for general information.

CANTONMENTS.

REGULATIONS.

No. 834.—In pursuance of section 26-A of the Cantonment Code, 1912, as subsequently amended, the Governor-General in Council is pleased to make the following rules prescribing the conditions subject to which a Cantonment Authority may establish and maintain a Provident Fund:—

1. These rules may be called the Cantonment Provident Fund Rules, 1917.

2. In these rules unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context :—

(a) "Salary" includes all fixed monthly allowances by way of pay or personal allowances, paid from Cantonment Funds, but does not include allowances granted to meet specific expenditure such as travelling, horse, conveyance or house rent allowances, whether daily, monthly or yearly;

(b) "Servant" includes every whole-time employee of, and holding a substantive office under, a Cantonment Authority, whether in receipt of a pension from Public Revenues or not, but does not include any servant who may be serving in a post which is pensionable from Public Revenues;

(c) "Depositor" means a servant on whose behalf a deposit is made under these rules;

(d) "Interest" means the interest which is paid on a deposit at a Government Savings Bank under the rules in force for such institutions.

Explanations.—An employee on probation in a substantive appointment will not be considered a servant for the purpose of these rules until he is confirmed, but on confirmation he may be allowed to subscribe to the fund with effect from the commencement of his probationary service.

3. Every servant appointed or promoted by the Cantonment Authority on or after the date from which these rules come into effect in the cantonment, to an office of which the salary is not less than Rs. 10 per mensem, shall be required to subscribe at the rate of 6¼ per cent. or one anna in the rupee, on his salary, to a Provident Fund of which an account will be opened at the Post Office Savings Bank. A servant appointed or promoted previous to the coming into effect of these rules, to an office of which the salary is not less than Rs. 10 per mensem, may be permitted by the Cantonment Authority to subscribe to the fund. The deduction shall be made by the Cantonment Authority upon every salary bill presented, and shall be credited at once to the fund. In making this deduction fractions of a rupee of salary should be omitted.

At the time of the deposit each depositor shall furnish a certificate of heirship giving the name and address of the person or persons to whom he assigns his deposit in the case of his decease.

4. The Cantonment Authority shall make a contribution to the deposit account of each depositor, equal to one-half of the amount of the deduction made from his salary under the preceding rule. Such contribution shall be credited to the fund, month by month, in favour of such servant, together with the deduction from his salary. The contribution will be charged in the cantonment accounts to "10—Superannuation," sub-head "Provident Fund."

Provided that, in addition to the contribution made under this rule, the Cantonment Authority may, if it deems fit, make further contributions to be credited to the Provident Fund in favour of any servant as follows :—

After	10	years'	approved	service,	2	months' pay.
„	15	„	„	„	3	„
„	20	„	„	„	3	„
„	30	„	„	„	4	„

These bonuses are cumulative, that is, a servant who has received a bonus after serving 10 years may, after serving 15 years, receive a second bonus and so on. Though approved service may be reckoned as from the date of commencement of service, no application for a bonus shall be considered unless it is preferred within six months from the date at which the depositor becomes eligible for a bonus. Pay, for the purpose of this rule, means the pay of the applicant on that date.

Provided that, if a servant is transferred to the service of another cantonment maintaining a Provident Fund, his service in his original post shall count towards service for a bonus.

5. The sums credited monthly under rules 3 and 4 to the Provident Fund Ledger maintained by the Cantonment Authority shall be paid duly into the Post Office Savings Bank. Such payments should, whenever possible, be made into the Bank between the 1st and the 4th of each month, in order that interest may accrue, and the payment in respect of the further contribution shall be made as soon as possible after the Cantonment Authority has sanctioned the same. These deposits may be invested in Government Securities in accordance with rule 46 of the "Rules for the guidance of depositors in the Post Office Savings Bank" The deposits may also be invested in Government of India loans.

6. The deposits and contributions, with interest thereon, at the credit of any servant, may be withdrawn :—

(1) on the decease of the depositor, when the amount shall be paid to his legal heirs ;

(2) on his ceasing to be a servant of the Cantonment Authority either by resignation or by transfer to Government service, when the amount will be paid to him ;

(3) on his being transferred to the employment of another Cantonment Authority, when the amount will be transferred by money order to the Secretary to the Cantonment Authority at his new station, for payment into the Post Office Savings Bank.

7. The sum at credit of a depositor is not liable to forfeiture on dismissal or on conviction by a Criminal Court, except for an offence for which the penalty of forfeiture of the whole of the offender's property is prescribed by law.

8. (i) Amounts credited or debited to the Provident Fund shall on the same day be posted in the Provident Fund Ledger. Separate pages of the account shall be set apart for each month's transaction.

(ii) The entries in column 7 will be made once a year only, except in the case provided by clause (c).

(iii) In column 14 will be entered the minimum balance at the credit of the account between the close of the 4th day and the end of the month.

(iv) When the Ledger has been completed with the monthly interest bearing balances (column 14), those balances will at once be carried to the broadsheet. At the close of the financial year the columns of the broadsheet shall be totalled. When any account is closed down during the year, the amount of interest which has been included in that account in accordance with clause (c) will also be carried to the appropriate place in the broadsheet. The amount of interest added by the Post Office in the Pass Book on the entire amount of the sums deposited during the year to the credit of the Cantonment Authority, less any amount already entered during the year under clause (c), shall be distributed among the individual accounts proportionately to the sums of each column (disregarding fractions of a rupee) of the broadsheet.

The "total of interest payable" should correspond with the amount of interest added by the Post Office.

(v) If any payment has to be made during the year on an individual deposit account under rule 6 or 13, interest shall be calculated on that account only as nearly as possible in accordance with the rules in force in the Post Office. The amount of interest calculated shall be entered in column 7 against the account concerned, before payment is made.

9. A copy of the account of each depositor shall be furnished to him as soon as possible after the close of the financial year to which the account relates, or at the time of payment in the case of accounts closed down in accordance with rule 5.

10. No voluntary deposit from servants will be credited to the Provident Fund.

11. Servants are not eligible to subscribe to the Provident Fund while absent on leave other than privilege leave. (See Article 811, Civil Service Regulations.)

12. On a depositor leaving the service, his account shall be closed, and unless the amount at his credit be withdrawn within a certain period, viz., for balances of Rs. 10 and under, one year, and for balances over Rs. 10, three years, it shall be written off as a dead account, and repaid only under the orders of the Officer Commanding the Division.

13. When an account becomes dead, it shall be closed in the Provident Fund Ledger, the money being drawn out of the Savings Bank and credited in the cash book (Form 7, Schedule I, Cantonment Code, 1912) as a miscellaneous receipt. If the amount is subsequently claimed the entries in the cash book and the Provident Fund Ledger shall first be made before the orders of the Officer Commanding the Division are requested and when repayment is made, the fact of payment and a reference to the order shall be made against the entry in each account book, to avoid a double payment.

14. Where a Provident Fund has been established on behalf of any servant under executive arrangements prior to the date of introduction of these rules, the amount at credit of the said servant may be brought forward to his credit in the accounts maintained under these rules.

Ordinarily one scholarship will be awarded annually to a student who proposes to carry on original research in scientific subjects, including such branches as natural and physical science, chemistry, mathematical science, etc., and another scholarship will similarly be awarded for research in literary subjects, including such branches as languages, comparative philology, palaeography, epigraphy, philosophy, history, archaeology, anthropology, etc., and the remaining will be awarded for research either in a literary or in scientific subjects. No application for a scholarship for research in a literary subject will be considered unless a candidate submits certificates showing that he has the capacity for undertaking the research proposed and a programme indicating a definite course of inquiry.

3. Election will be made in the first instance for one year only with effect from 1st July 1917, but a scholarship may be renewed from year to year, up to the limit of three years, provided the candidate has throughout the year vigorously prosecuted original research in the subject which he selected.

4. Each candidate for a scholarship must submit his application, through the head of the institution in which he read last, to the Director of Public Instruction, Bengal, on or before 15th June 1917, and must produce evidence of having passed from a Bengal college the M. A. examination of the Calcutta University, or of having obtained some other equivalent or higher degree, such as that of Doctor in Medicine, or Doctor in Law, or Doctor in Science, or Master in Engineering of the Calcutta University in 1914 or 1915 or 1916. He must state as definitely as possible the subject or part of a subject in which he intends, if elected to a scholarship, to carry on his original investigations. He must also indicate the institution in which he proposes to work, with evidence that the authorities of the institution are able and willing to provide facilities for him, or, if no institution is mentioned, the circumstances or conditions under which he proposes to work should be stated.

5. Applications for this year's scholarships should be submitted in prescribed forms, which are obtainable from the Personal Assistant to the Director of Public Instruction, Bengal, Writers' Buildings, Calcutta.

ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

ROYAL BOTANIC GARDEN AND OF THE GARDENS IN CALCUTTA AND OF THE LLOYD BOTANIC GARDEN, DARJEELING FOR 1916-17.

ROYAL BOTANIC GARDEN.

1. General.—The weather during the past year has been on the whole abnormal. April and May were exceedingly hot and dry and the rains were scanty until early in August when they became copious and were prolonged till the middle of November. The germination of cold weather annual seeds was not attempted until there was evidence of normal weather conditions setting in and in consequence, the seedlings suffered much less from damping off than was usual in gardens in the Presidency, the subsquent display of flowers being profuse. The abnormal weather did not detrimentally affect the Orchids.

A cyclone passed over the Calcutta district on the 21st September and, in common with other gardens and parks in its course, the Sibpur gardens suffered much material damage. Nearly four hundred trees and shrubs were uprooted. This number, however, does not anything like represent the actual loss incurred. The effects of the cyclone are still seen in the dying off of trees which have been loosened at the roots and many, which at first seemed to escape the full force of the blast, will have to be removed. An analysis of the destruction shows that Casuarinas, Sissoos, Sterculias, Araucarias and Mahoganies were most affected while Debdars suffered least in proportion to the number of these in the garden. Several of the trees were magnificent specimens of their kind and are a great loss to the collection. The necessary cutting up and removing of fallen trees has interfered somewhat with routine work but, considering the exceptional call on the Curator and his staff, garden work is now well forward.

The revetting of the river bank mentioned in previous annual reports has been continued and two sections where erosion had gone on to such an extent as to threaten the river bank avenue have been dealt with. This work continues to be a heavy tax on garden labour and finances.

The re-making of the garden roads proceeds as time and labour permit. During the year the Kyd Avenue, leading from the College Gate towards the centre of the garden, has been thoroughly overhauled for a distance of about 500 yards.

The Economic Garden referred to in the reports of the last two years has been completed so far as the preparation of the ground is concerned. Economic plants cultivated during the year include Hyoscyamus niger, Chenopodium ambrosioides and several varieties of "Tulsi".

The Curator held the annual class in Arboriculture and continued to give advice to the Corporation of Calcutta regarding street trees.

Owing to the prolonged cold weather and the ferry steamers calling at the Gardens Ghât an increased number of Calcutta people have visited the gardens.

2. Plant and seed exchange and distribution.—About 65,000 plants were distributed and 3,300 received during the year. Of the former 22,576 were roadside trees distributed to District Boards and the Public Works Department. Some 650 went to New Delhi and 2,937 to the Government of Bihar and Orissa for Bankipore and Ranchi. Some 969 packets of seeds were distributed including 80 lbs. sent to the Arboricultural expert for New Delhi. Packets 187 of seeds were received exclusive of the supply of two barrels of Mahogany from the Royal Gardens, Kew, and six bags of palm seed from Mr. Lister of Pashok.

3. Herbarium and library.—The reduced staff has not been able to cope with all the collections received during the year, and a considerable mass of material remains untouched. This is unfortunate, for casual collectors, some of whom turn out useful helpers, are apt to be lost when not promptly supplied with identifications of the material in which they are immediately interested. Nevertheless much useful work has been done. The number of specimens received has been up to the annual average. the same collectors as in past years continuing to supply the material. Between 2,000—3,000 sheets have been distributed mainly to Indian Herbaria, and numerous sheets will be sent abroad when export facilities are available and the seas more secure. With the exception of a short tour in Tipperah undertaken by Mr. Barman at his own expense there has been no active exploration work undertaken by the staff during the year. The Curator of the Herbarium attended the Indian Science Congress which met at Bangalore in January 1917 to read a paper on "Oxalis Introductions to India." This paper will be published in the Records of the Botanical Survey in due course.

Library work has gone on as usual, 289 books being received of which 205 were in exchange and 84 purchased.

4. Publications.—No purely garden publications have been issued during the year.

5. Financial.—Sums collected and paid into the Bank of Bengal as Garden revenue amounted to Rs. 580-9. There has been a total saving of Rs. 13,942-3-10 under salaries and establishment, contingencies, etc.

CALCUTTA GARDENS.

Work in these gardens was mostly of a routine character. In common with other gardens in the district they suffered considerably from the September cyclone, a catastrophe which threw much additional work on the staff, coming as it did just in the season when cold weather seeds are sown and flower beds prepared. In consequence the flower beds were filled only with difficulty and the display of flowers retarded.

The scheme for replacing the present insanitary and insufficient accommodation for the labour force by properly built lines is still under the consideration of Government.

LLOYD BOTANIC GARDEN, DARJEELING.

The rainfall for the year was 135·77 inches or in excess. All the excess fell during the monsoon period. The cold weather was drier and less dull than usual. The winter as a whole was a bad one for horticulture, but some species of plants benefited and the display of flowering shrubs in early spring was very profuse.

Routine work was carried on as usual, handicapped to some extent by the dearness and scarcity of materials and by the non-arrival of a portion of the seeds and bulbs indented for. The collections of plants both in pots and in permanent quarters were maintained in good order and some 404 species previously unrepresented in the collections were planted out. Owing to fewer species of exotic plants being available special efforts were made to procure and plant in the indigenous division species not already there. Until a species has been tried under various conditions in the garden it cannot be certainly known if it will or will not live or thrive there. Its natural habitat gives no sure indication in the matter of elevation though it is usually reliable as regards exposure. The question of sites and exposures has been experimentally tested during the year and though opportunities for this are limited in the garden itself, other places under the Curator's charge are available for experimental purposes. Mr. G. H. Cave, who has been in charge as Curator throughout the year, deserves great credit both for the energy which keeps routine work going and the garden in good condition and for the resource he displays in tackling new horticultural problems.

About 11,510 plants, 5,173 dozen seedlings, 908 bulbs and tubers and 4,172 packets of seeds figure in the year's distribution list.

The gate tally showing 16,205 European and 35,730 Indian visitors proves the continued popularity of the garden as a public resort.

DISTRICT REPORTS ON WEATHER AND CROPS

For the week ending on the 28th May 1917.

Summary.—During the week under review light to moderate rain fell nearly all over the province benefiting standing crops and helping field operations generally. Sowings of jute and autumn paddy are nearing completion; weeding is proceeding. Ploughing of fields for winter rice is in full swing. Sowings for seedlings have also commenced in places. Standing crops are being slightly damaged in parts of the Howrah, Dacca and Tippera districts by insects. The prospects on the whole are, however, good. Cattle-disease exists in ten districts. The average price of common rice for the province again remained stationary with a slight tendency to rise.

DEPARTMENT OF STATISTICS, INDIA.

CALCUTTA TRADE FLUCTUATIONS.

THE following tables are intended to show the trade of the Calcutta Block* in certain selected articles during the months of April, 1916, to March, 1917, by all routes, i.e., by rail, river, canal, road, and sea. The statistics have been compiled from returns furnished by the Collector of Customs, Calcutta, Railway Audit Offices, Steamer Companies, the Commissioners for the Port of Calcutta, the District Magistrates of the 24-Parganas and Howrah, and the Assistant Engineer, Calcutta Canals.

General Summary.

Imports.—The imports of rice including paddy† into Calcutta by rail, river, canal, road, and sea (coastwise) during April, 1916, to March, 1917, amounted to 17,153,000 maunds as against 22,660,000 maunds in the corresponding period of the preceding year—a decline of 24 per cent. There was a slight increase in the imports of coal and coke (110,651,000 maunds as against 107,476,000 maunds last year). The imports by rail and river of Indian cotton piece-goods showed a considerable improvement, the total value amounting to Rs. 3,65,51,000 as against Rs. 2,24,43,000 in 1915-16. The quantity of indigo imported during the twelve months ending March, 1917, rose by 50 per cent (33,000 maunds as against 22,000 maunds last year), owing to larger supplies having been received mainly from the United Provinces and Bihar and Orissa. Imports of raw jute amounted to 5,375,000 bales as against 6,209,000 bales—a fall of 13 per cent, while the importations of gunny-bags showed a large increase—438 million bags as against 348 millions in the preceding year. The total imports of oilseeds (linseed and rape and mustard seed) rose by 13 per cent (6,967,000 maunds as against 6,157,000 maunds), and those of sugar by 3 per cent (677,000 maunds as against 655,000 maunds). There was a decrease in the imports of tea (3,049,000 maunds as against 3,377,000 maunds).

Exports.—The exports of cotton piece-goods, foreign, from Calcutta by all routes during April, 1916, to March, 1917, increased by 11 per cent (Rs. 20,65,04,000 as against Rs. 18,55,56,000 last year). The exports of gunny-bags, including the exports by sea to foreign countries, increased from 1,494 million bags to 1,540 million bags. Shipments of gunny-bags to foreign countries other than the United Kingdom decreased by about 37 million bags in the period under review, but those to the United Kingdom increased by 55 million bags. The quantity of kerosene oil despatched from Calcutta and Budge-Budge by internal routes and by sea (coastwise) decreased from 7,404,000 maunds to 7,281,000 maunds.

* The Calcutta block consists of the town of Calcutta with Howrah and Kidderpore Docks.

NOTIFICATION.

No. 4—The 1st May 1917.—The following draft of (1) revised rules and (2) revised schedules of rates of tolls, which the Governor in Council intends to make and fix for the Midnapore Canal, and its branch, the Naraingar Distributary, in exercise of the powers conferred by sections 6 and 11 of the Canals Act, 1864 (Bengal Act V of 1864), and in supersession of those portions of Bengal Government Notification No. 98, dated the 4th April 1893, as amended by subsequent notifications, and of Notification No. 3, dated the 17th May 1906, which relate to the Midnapore Canal, with branch to Naraingar, is published, as required by section 12 of that Act, for the information of persons likely to be affected thereby.

II. The draft will be taken into consideration on or after the 15th June 1917, and any objection or suggestion which may be received by the undersigned before that date will be duly considered.

F. A. A. COWLEY,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

Draft Rules.

1. Every vessel entering or passing along the Midnapore Canal, or its branch, the Naraingar Distributary, shall be liable to measurement for the purpose of ascertaining the amount of toll the vessel should pay according to the schedule of rates authorised by Government to be charged on this line of navigation.

2. The tonnage of every vessel, except loose timber and rafts, whether laden or empty, shall, for the purposes of the "Canals Act, 1864," and of these rules, be determined by the following measurements:—

(a) The product of half the length of the vessel, measured along the water-line and round the contour of the vessel from centre of stem to centre of stern-post, multiplied by the interior greatest breadth of the vessel or by the greatest breadth of the cargo, should this overhang, or, as in the case of logs, be lashed alongside, multiplied by the greatest interior depth from the water-line to the bottom of the vessel, is to be taken as equal to the number of maunds upon which toll shall be levied.

(b) The measurement of the length is to be made in feet, rejecting fractions of a foot, and the measurement of the breadth and depth in feet and quarters of feet, rejecting portions of less than a quarter of a foot.

(c) In calculating the amount of toll to be levied, any portion of 100 maunds less than 10 maunds is to be omitted.

(d) In calculating the amount of toll to be levied on steamers, an allowance of one-third the total maundage, as found under clauses (a), (b) and (c), is to be made for engine space.

3. Every vessel entering or passing along the said line of navigation shall be furnished with a ticket on paying the prescribed toll. The ticket shall specify the station at which it has been issued, the name of the person in charge of the vessel, the date on which the voyage commenced, the point to which the vessel may proceed on the line of navigation, the maundage of the vessel, the amount of toll charged, the number of days allowed for the voyage, and the date of such last day. The number of days so allowed without additional payment shall be calculated at the rate of one day for every eight miles, or portion of eight miles, to be traversed, together with one day for every 200 maunds of measurement. In the case of rafts, one day for every five miles shall be allowed.

4. Toll may be paid at the first station, either for the entire number of toll-stations on the line of navigation or for any less number of stations.

5. The tickets thus given may be demanded for inspection by any duly authorised navigation officer, and must be kept on board and at hand for that purpose. They must be shown at each toll-station the vessel has to pass as a passport that no further payment of toll is to be demanded. The tickets shall be delivered up at the last toll-station.

Navigation officers shall have authority to check-measure vessels whenever they consider it necessary, and if the toll due according to the check-measurement exceeds that originally paid, the difference shall be payable at the toll-station of check-measurement, or at the next toll-station at which the vessel may arrive if the check-measurement was made at some point other than a toll-station. The officer collecting the difference shall endorse the ticket showing the measurements, and note the amount recovered in excess of the toll originally paid.

6. Owners or hirers of vessels may compound, by the payment of a fixed sum, for the use of the whole or any portion of the line of navigation for any period that may be agreed upon, not exceeding one year. In such case the vessel shall be furnished with a ticket showing the amount of toll paid, the period for which the toll has been compounded, and the limits of the line of navigation within which the vessel may pass. Such ticket shall be kept on board the vessel, and shall be produced when required under rule 5, but shall be given up only on the date of the expiry of the period for which it is granted, and at the station from which it is issued.

7. Duplicates of lost tickets of which the numbers and dates of entry can be satisfactorily established, will be granted by the officers in charge of toll-stations on payment of a fee of one rupee.

8. Every vessel, which does not complete its voyage within the number of days allowed by rule 3, shall, for each day or part of a day in excess, be liable to an extra charge equal to 8 annas per 100 maunds, calculated on the maundage of the vessel, as determined by rule 2. The charge for demurrage on timbers and rafts shall be as follows:—

Timber in rafts or loose	...	One anna per timber per day.
Bamboos in floats	...	Two annas per 100 per day.
Bullahs in rafts	...	Eight annas per 100 per day.

Provided as follows:—

(1) Exemption from payment of demurrage may be granted to vessels detained in the canal or its branch by stress of weather or heavy traffic, steamers broken down and boats damaged, if immediate notice of the cause of detention be given at the nearest toll-station for the information of the Executive Engineer.

(2) Missionary boats are exempted from payment of demurrage for lying in the canal or its branch.

(3) Exemption from payment of demurrage or tolls may be granted to vessels while waiting for cargo or for any other purpose at the places on the Midnapore Canal fixed by the Superintending Engineer for such purposes which include Kayali ghats, Canal ghats above and below every lock, and all free ghats on the 6th Reach of the Canal, Panskura to Dainan. Such exemption will not extend over a period of more than three months in each case.

If the person in charge of any vessel, on the completion of a voyage or on entering the canal, wishes his vessel to remain in any of the free ghats in the line of navigation he shall give up his toll ticket at the nearest toll station, specifying the particular ghat where he wishes to keep his vessel and shall take out a fresh ticket from such toll station before leaving such ghat. On failure to comply with this provision he shall be liable to demurrage charge as provided in this rule, which shall be recoverable as toll.

(4) Partial exemption from payment of demurrage is to be granted to boats thus:—

(a) by increasing the allowance of time for the voyage (see rule 3), which shall be calculated at the rate of one day for every 8 miles or portion of 8 miles to be traversed, together with one day for every 200 maunds of measurement or any portion of 200 maunds which is not less than 60 maunds—(from 60 to 190 maunds one day shall be allowed);

(b) by granting the following extra times for the purpose of bona-fide loading or unloading, or both, in the canals to—

		Days.
Cargo boats from	10 to 100 maunds of measurement ...	5
" " "	110 to 200 " " ...	8
" " "	210 to 300 " " ...	10
" " "	310 to 400 " " ...	12
" " "	410 to 500 " " ...	14
" "	of over 500 maunds—for every additional 100 maunds. ...	3
Passenger boats of 10 maunds and upwards	...	5

9. Vessels are allowed to be moored while waiting for cargo or otherwise at the Kayali ghats, Canal ghats above and below every lock, and all free ghats on the 6th Reach of the Canal—Panskura to Dainan; but they are allowed to be loaded and unloaded only at the Kayali ghats and the free ghats in the 6th Reach. In any case they must complete the voyage within the time allowable to them under these rules, otherwise demurrage will be charged.

The places at which vessels can be ordinarily loaded or unloaded in any Reach of the line of navigation are notified at the locks in the Reach, and no vessel without the previous permission of the Toll Collector (who should without delay inform the Executive Engineer of his permission having been granted), can be allowed to load or unload at any other place. Should any vessel be loaded or unloaded at any place other than those notified and without the said permission having been obtained, the person in charge of the vessel and the consignor or consignee of the goods shall, on conviction before a Magistrate, be liable to a fine not exceeding Rs. 10 for each offence.

10. No boat is permitted to moor in the outer channels of any lock. The channels to which this prohibition extends are as follows:—

Ulubaria.—Between the Ulubaria Lock and the Banspati Khal.
Bansbaria.—Between the Bansbaria Lock and the Damodar river.
Kultapara.—Between the Kultapara Lock and the Damodar river.
Kantapukur.—Between the Kantapukur Lock and the Rupnarayan river.
Dainan.—Between the Dainan Lock and the Rupnarayan river.
Panskura.—Between the Panskura east Lock and the Cossye river.
Panskura.—Between the Panskura west Lock and the Cossye river.
Mohunpur.—Between the Mohunpur Lock and the Cossye river.

No boat will be allowed, under any circumstances, to drop an anchor or to moor to both banks in any lock entrance or in the canal, except in the case of severe stress of weather.

11. Except with the written permission of a navigation officer, no goods or cargo may be deposited on any bank, berm or land appertaining to the canal at places other than those notified by the Superintending Engineer of the circle as available for such a purpose. Any person depositing goods in contravention of this rule shall, on conviction before a Magistrate, be liable to a fine not exceeding Rs. 50.

12. Navigation officers may order consignors or consignees or owners to remove their goods from the places notified as available for depositing cargo under rule 11. Goods not finally removed within a period of six days from the receipt of such order shall be liable to a charge of four annas per 100 maunds for each day or part of a day after the expiry of six days until finally removed.

13. Any vessel whose extreme dimensions exceed 130 feet in length and 19 feet in breadth including goods overhanging is prohibited from entering or passing along the line of navigation without the special permission in writing of the Executive Engineer; but straw boats of 20 feet width including overhangings (the overhangings beyond 19 feet being entirely straw) may be passed through the locks of the Main Canal; also no vessel exceeding 50 feet in length and 10½ feet in breadth including goods overhanging will be allowed to enter or pass along the Narainpur Distributary.

14. It will not be compulsory for the locks to be opened to single vessels of less than 500 maunds burden, except in the case of mail or despatch boats or passenger or cargo-boats in tow of steam-vessels; but the locks shall be opened for the passage of boats at least twice a day.

15. Mooring.—All vessels stopping at night must be moored head and stern to the bank of the channel or wherever specially ordered.

Only one line of vessels shall be allowed to pass along the canal or to make fast along and in a line with the canal banks or along and in a line with the banks of the river entrance to the locks, and no vessel shall be made fast, or be placed outside of vessels so secured, without the permission of a navigation officer. No vessel shall, however, be placed in such a position as to endanger the safety of other vessels, to obstruct their passage, or to impede the navigation.

16. Rule of the road.—When under sail, vessels are to keep in the centre of the channel. When being tracked, vessels are, wherever practicable, to keep to starboard or the right side of the channel. Vessels meeting in the canal, except when being tracked, must keep to their right when passing, and when one vessel overtakes another, the former must pass on the left. When vessels, one of which is sailing and the other steaming, meet in a canal, the sailing vessel must keep to the leeward. No steamer passing any vessel must proceed at a greater speed than half speed.

17. Lights and signals.—All vessels, whether travelling or moored in the line of navigation, must, between sunset and sunrise, carry a white light in a lantern on the forepart of the vessel where it can be distinctly seen from all sides. All steam-vessels in motion shall carry the lights prescribed by the Board of Trade Regulations. Barges or boats attached to a steam-vessel, whether in motion or moored, shall carry the white light prescribed above.

Where signals are used, no vessel shall enter or attempt to enter the entrance channel of a lock when a red flag or red light is displayed at the end of the lock next her, "but shall wait until the signal intimating 'all clear' is displayed." Steam-vessels approaching a lock shall whistle when a mile distant, and shall continue to whistle at intervals, until the signal intimating that the lock is open or closed is displayed, or, if no signals are used, until arrival.

18. Crews and attendants.—Every vessel, when stationary, shall be securely fastened, and shall at all times have some person in attendance on board. Every vessel in motion shall have a sufficient crew.

19. Fittings.—Vessels must have their masts, high awnings, and funnels fitted so that they can be let down with ease and speed, and no bamboos or poles shall be erected on or by vessels when at anchor.

20. Conduct of navigation.—Vessels are prohibited from making fast to any portion of the lock-gates or gearing, and steamers are prohibited from making fast the tow-lines of their boats until the latter are clear of the locks. Steamers are prohibited from lashing boats or barges alongside while proceeding within locks. No towing rope of a greater length than 100 feet is to be used in the canal. The throwing of cinders into the canal is prohibited; they are to be deposited on the banks.

21. In every case of wreck or obstruction of the channel by sunken vessels, the Supervisor of the line of navigation, or of a part of it, may call upon the person in charge of the vessel to remove the same without delay, and shall give every reasonable assistance towards so doing. But should the owner of the vessel or raft be not forthcoming, or should he not use reasonable expedition in removing the obstruction, or should he decline or fail to use proper assistance which may be offered to him by the Supervisor, this officer may, under the provisions of section 14 of the "Canals Act," undertake the removal of the obstruction himself at the cost of the owner of the boat recovering the expense in the manner prescribed in section 9 of the Act.

In the case of emergency and in the temporary absence of the Supervisor from the place where the obstruction occurred, any navigation officer present must at once report the matter to the Supervisor.

22. If the Supervisor be unable to ascertain the name and place of business or of the abode of the owner of the cargo of any vessel or boats seized under the Act, he shall notify the seizure in the most public manner available.

23. In the event of any damage or injury being occasioned to the canal works by wilfulness or negligence on the part of any person in charge of a vessel, the navigation officers may detain the vesssel at any point within the canal for a period not exceeding 48 hours: provided that, within that period, the navigation officers shall lodge a complaint against such person in charge of the vessel before a Magistrate under section 16 of the Act.

24. For any contravention of rules 15, 16, 17, 18, 19 and 20, the person in charge of the vessel shall, on conviction before a Magistrate, be liable to a fine not exceeding Rs. 50.

25. The term "navigation officers" as used in these rules shall include all persons appointed under section 8 of the "Canals Act, 1864", and all Public Works Officers or subordinates in charge of the canal not below the grade of Sub-Overseer.

26. The canal and its branch may be closed once a year for effecting the necessary repairs to them on one month's notice of the intention so to close them being given; but in the event of any sudden emergency they may be closed at any time without prior notice, and no claim in such case by owners of vessels or others for compensation on account of detention shall be entertained.

RESOLUTION ON THE TRIENNIAL REPORT ON THE ADMINISTRATION OF THE REGISTRATION DEPARTMENT FOR THE YEARS 1914, 1915 AND 1916.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT.

REGISTRATION.

DARJEELING, THE 28TH MAY 1917.

RESOLUTION No. 650 T.—R.

READ—

The Triennial Report on the Administration of the Registration Department for the years 1914, 1915 and 1916.

THE Hon'ble Rai Priya Nath Mukharji Bahadur was in charge of the Registration Department throughout the triennium with the exception of a period of three months from 5th June to 4th September 1915 when Rai Abinash Chandra Basu Bahadur, Personal Assistant to the Inspector-General of Registration, acted for him.

2. Financial conditions due to the war have retarded the progress of the Department. Schemes for the opening of new offices were curtailed, and the building programme prepared with a view to improving the notoriously bad condition of rural offices had to be abandoned ; while the scheme, sanctioned by the Secretary of State, for the revision of ministerial establishments both at District headquarters and at rural offices could not be introduced.

A Fourth Inspector was sanctioned and the pay of each of the four Inspectors was fixed at Rs. 300—20—400. The pensions earned by officers who entered pensionable service at the time of the reorganisation of the Registration Department in 1905, at ages over 30, used to be reduced under note (7) to Article 478(a) of the Civil Service Regulations : this disability has recently been removed with the sanction of the Secretary of State. The rules for the recruitment of Sub-Registrars sanctioned in the previous triennium did not work well, and revised rules have been introduced, under which recruitment is made once a year chiefly on nominations made by the Commissioners of Divisions and the Inspector-General of Registration, a fixed percentage of the posts being retained for direct appointment by Government. The revision of the Bengal Registration Manual was taken in hand, and revised rules under section 69 of the Registration Act were issued. The important question of keeping within manageable limits the ever increasing mass of registration records is now under the consideration of Government.

3. The ordinary work of the Department has considerably increased. The number of offices has risen from 392 to 403. Compulsory registrations affecting immoveable property increased by 13 per cent., and optional registrations of the same kind by 16 per cent. The total number of registrations under all heads was 4,913,810 in the period under review, as compared with 4,394,921 in the preceding triennium, showing an increase of 11·8 per cent. The receipts of the Department during the past three years amounted to over 59 lakhs, and the expenditure to over 31½ lakhs, leaving a surplus of about 27½ lakhs. As compared with the previous triennium, the receipts increased by 11·4 per cent., the expenditure by 7·1 per cent., and the surplus by 16·7 per cent.

4. The increase in registration transactions is shared by all the Divisions. As the Inspector-General has remarked, prosperity and adversity both tend to increase the number of registrations, and the causes of fluctuations are in many instances obscure. The general decline in the number of registrations in Eastern Bengal accompanying the sudden fall in the price of jute at the outbreak of the war, and the decline in Tippera district in 1915, when there were serious floods, are attributable to the fact that small money-lenders had little money to advance in those periods because they had not recovered their previous loans.

5. The Governor in Council endorses the remarks of Mr. Mukharji about the importance of attention to the condition of record-rooms, and trusts that the instructions which have been issued will result in an improvement in this direction.

6. The total number of appeals under section 72 and applications under section 73 rose from 4,547 to 5,497, and registration was ordered in 72·9 per cent. of the cases. The Inspector-General of Registration remarks that the large percentage of cases in which registration was ordered shows the summary nature of the procedure followed by subordinate officers in refusing registration. Appeals under section 72 relate to cases in which Sub-Registrars refuse registration on grounds other than denial of execution : applications under section 73 relate to cases in which registration has been refused on account of denial of execution : in many of the former cases the Sub-Registrar acts according to his discretion, while in the latter refusal is of course obligatory. The figures in Statement IV do not, however, distinguish between appeals and applications, and it is only if orders for registration have been passed largely in appeal cases that Sub-Registrars may be open to criticism. If any considerable proportion of the 1,466 orders for registration in 1916 were passed on applications under section 73, it is remarkable that the number of prosecutions under section 83 were as few as 31. False denial of execution before a Sub-Registrar, apart from the fact that it constitutes a very serious offence, is a cause of much trouble and expense to the person in whose favour a document is executed. The Governor in Council desires that the Inspector-General will investigate the applications under section 73 in the districts of Mymensingh, Tippera, Dacca, Chittagong and Murshidabad in which orders for registration were the most numerous, and will ascertain whether Registrars take proper action in the case of false denials.

7. The thanks of the Governor in Council are due to Mr. Mukharji for his efficient administration of the Department : he has an intimate knowledge of the intricate technicalities of registration and of the personnel of the Department, and his advice has been invaluable to Government.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of this Resolution be forwarded to the Inspector-General of Registration, Bengal, for information.

Ordered also that a copy of the Resolution, together with a copy of the Report, be submitted to the Government of India in the Home Department for information.

Ordered also that the Resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

RESOLUTION ON THE REPORT ON THE ADMINISTRATION OF THE JAIL DEPARTMENT IN THE PRESIDENCY OF BENGAL FOR THE YEAR 1916.

POLITICAL DEPARTMENT.

JAILS.

DARJEELING, THE 1ST JUNE 1917.

RESOLUTION No. 1193P.—D.

READ—

The Report on the Administration of the Jail Department in the Presidency of Bengal for the year 1916.

Also—

The Reports for the years 1915 and 1914 and the Resolutions of Government recorded thereon.

During recent years the most serious problem in connection with jail administration in Bengal has been the steady increase in the jail population. In the early part of 1916, all previous records were exceeded, with the result that the average daily population of the year was 15,546 as compared with 14,475 in 1915. After August 1916, however, the figures began to fall off, and the total number of admissions during the year was 80,828, or 973 less than in the previous year. There is, therefore, some ground for hope that high-water mark has now been reached, and that the effect of the abnormal conditions which have prevailed since the outbreak of the war is beginning to wear off.

2. The difficulties and dangers of overcrowding were prevented in several of the larger jails by the erection of overflow sheds which were constructed in the Presidency Jail, and the manner in which discipline was maintained was on the whole very satisfactory. In spite of the increase in the jail population, the number of jail offences committed was substantially less than in the previous year.

3. The statistics regarding sickness and mortality are slightly less favourable than those of 1915. The death-rate per mille was 22·4 as compared with a quinquennial average of 21, and the daily average number of sick prisoners was 53 per mille. There was a marked improvement in the health of the prisoners in the Dinajpur and Barisal Jails, which have caused anxiety in previous years, but high death-rates are returned from Jalpaiguri, Rangpur, Bankura and Jessore. There has been considerable improvement at Rangpur, since the opening of a new jail hospital, and new hospitals for the Dinajpur and Jalpaiguri Jails are under construction. The scheme for converting the Berhampore Jail into a special tuberculosis jail still awaits the provision of a new Central Lunatic Asylum for the Presidency, but meanwhile, the Inspector-General has arranged to construct a temporary building in the garden of the Suri Jail for the treatment of tuberculous prisoners from Western Bengal and proposes to make similar arrangements in one of the Eastern Bengal jails.

Colonel Buchanan has given some interesting figures showing the progressive decline in jail mortality in Bengal during the last half-century. In 1860, the death-rate per mille was 132. In the decennial period ending with 1900, it had fallen to 32, and during the last quinquennium it was only 21 These figures afford a gratifying illustration of the success of the campaign against sickness in jails, which has been carried on by Colonel Buchanan and his predecessors.

4. There has been a further increase in the number of prisoners who have voluntarily adopted the wheat-scale dietary. More than half the total number are now on this scale, and in the Presidency Jail, all but a few sickly men have chosen it. Its advantages are very clearly shown by the figures for bowel-complaints, and will no doubt be recognized in due course both by the prisoners and by the jail staff.

5. A satisfactory account is given of the working of the Juvenile Jail, but the Governor in Council regrets that it has not yet been possible to make systematic arrangements for the care of the boys after their release from jail. This is a matter to which His Excellency in Council attaches considerable importance, and he hopes that Colonel Buchanan will be able to secure the assistance of philanthropic gentlemen who will be willing to find work for the boys and to keep a friendly eye on them after their release.

6. The outturn of jail manufactures was again very satisfactory. In the Presidency Jail, the outturn of gunny cloth was nearly double that of the previous year. A large quantity of cloths and bags was supplied to meet military requirements. The Midnapore Central Jail furnished the Army Department with 79,000 bandages ; at Dacca the new woollen factory, which was opened in February, was engaged throughout the year in making blankets for the Army, the total outturn being 17,242.

Useful work was also done in supplying the requirements of the jail and other departments. Thus, the Presidency Jail provided overflow sheds for crowded jails, and ironwork, including cots for hospitals and for the Police Department. The Alipore Central Jail supplied Government with printed forms. The manufactures at the Midnapore Central Jail included chaukidari and dafadari uniforms, bedsheets and dosooti cloth for other jails and durries for the Police Department. Rajshahi, where there is a blanket factory on a smaller scale than that at Dacca, furnished other jails with blankets.

The quality of the castor-oil produced at the Rajshahi Jail has met with the approval of the Surgeon-General. The attention of all medical officers has been called to it and it seems likely that there may be a considerable expansion of this industry.

7. The Governor in Council is glad to learn that the increase in the warder staff and in the pay of warders and head warders, which was sanctioned by the Secretary of State during the year, has been received with satisfaction and has relieved the strain of overwork, under which the jail staff was previously labouring. The crowded state of most of the jails during the greater part of the year imposed a heavy burden of labour and responsibility on all ranks, which was loyally and cheerfully undertaken. To Colonel Buchanan himself, who has completed nearly fifteen years' service as Inspector-General of Jails, the special thanks of Government are again due for his successful and efficient management of the Department. The names of the officers whom he has commended for good work have been noted.

ORDERED, that a copy of this Resolution be forwarded to the Inspector-General of Prisons, Bengal, for information and guidance.

Ordered also, that a copy of this Resolution and a copy of the Report be submitted to the Government of India, in the Home Department.

Ordered also, that the Resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette

By order of the Governor in Council.

For the week ending on the 4th June 1917.

Summary.—During the week under report light to moderate rain generally fell throughout the Province. The fall was, however, heavy in parts of the Rangpur district and in Cooch-Behar. Sowings of jute and autumn paddy continue in the western districts while weeding is going on in the eastern districts. Ploughing for and sowing of winter paddy in seed-beds are in full swing. Condition and prospects of the standing paddy and jute crops are good. Insects are reported to have partly disappeared from Tippera district. No further reports of damage to paddy have been received from Howrah and Dacca. Cattle-disease is reported from nine districts. The average price of common rice for the Province has slightly fallen as compared with that of the previous week.

L. BIRLEY,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

Rules under the Land Improvement Loans Act, 1883.

Officers empowered to discharge the functions of a Collector under section 7 of this Act.

THE following officers are empowered to discharge the functions of a Collector under section 7 of this Act:—

(i) All Subdivisional Officers in Bengal,

(ii) All Certificate Officers appointed in accordance with clause (3) of section 3 of the Bengal Public Demands Recovery Act, 1913 (Bengal Act III of 1913), (iii) All Officers appointed by the Local Government to be Colonization Officers in the Sundarbans.

Powers to sanction loans

2. The Collector shall be competent to grant loans under the Act, but for loans exceeding Rs. 2,000 for any one work the previous sanction of the Commissioner shall be obtained, and for loans exceeding Rs. 5,000 for any one work the previous sanction of the Local Government shall be obtained.

N.B.—Special rules for Land Improvement Loans in areas in which scarcity or famine has been declared are contained in section 155 of the Bengal Famine Code of 1913.

Applications for loans

3. Applications for loans may be presented to the Collector or to the Subdivisional Officer direct or through any Revenue Officer not below the rank of kanungo.

Form of application

4. (1) The application shall, if in writing, be made as nearly as possible in Form A annexed to these rules, which form shall be supplied free to intending applicants. If an oral application be made, or if the application, though in writing, be made in any other form to the Collector or to the Subdivisional Officer, the Officer to whom it is made shall cause it to be recorded as nearly as possible in the prescribed form.

(2) The application, if presented under rule 3 to an officer other than a Subdivisional Officer or Collector, shall be recorded in the manner prescribed in sub-rule (1) and shall be forwarded without delay to the Subdivisional Officer or to the Collector.

Local enquiry

5. (1) The Collector or Subdivisional Officer, on receipt of an application under rule 3, shall first see that the application has been made or recorded in the prescribed form. He shall then, if the grant of a loan appears prima facie to be desirable, make an enquiry or cause an enquiry to be made by an officer not below the rank of kanungo or by a reliable non-official agent for the purpose of verifying the particulars mentioned on the reverse of Form A.

(2) The enquiry shall be conducted as expeditiously as possible, and shall not be carried further than is necessary with due regard to the security of the loan.

(3) Care shall be taken to ascertain what encumbrances there are on the land to be improved, and in cases in which doubts arise a notice shall be issued by the Collector or Subdivisional Officer under section 5 of the Act calling upon the persons objecting to the loan to appear before him at a time or place to be fixed in the notice and to submit their objections. Such notice shall be published by being fixed to a prominent place in the village in which the land to be improved is situated.

(4) This notice shall also require the persons objecting to furnish the officer to be deputed to make local enquiry with a copy of the objections which they desire to submit to the Collector or Subdivisional Officer and to appear before the officer deputed to make local enquiry at such time and place as may be fixed by that officer.

(5) The Collector or Subdivisional Officer when any objection is submitted to him in compliance with a notice issued under section 5, sub-section (1) of the Act, shall consider the same, together with such evidence as the objector may produce and together with the report of the officer deputed to make local enquiry, and after such further enquiry, if any, as he may consider proper, he shall make an order in writing either admitting or overruling it.

(6) The Subdivisional Officer, if the application is made to him, on completion of his enquiries and after disposing of objections other than those contained in the proviso to section 5 of the Act, shall forward the same to the Collector with his opinion as to whether the loan should or should not be sanctioned.

(7) Ordinarily enquiries to ascertain the existence of encumbrances shall be made in Registration offices by an officer deputed by the Collector and in such cases searching fees shall not be charged. But if applications are so numerous that it is not possible for the Collector to depute officers for this purpose, enquiries shall be made by the staff of the Registration Department on payment by the Collector of the prescribed fees.

onsideration of plication

6. In considering an application for a loan the Collector shall decide—

(a) whether the need for the loan is established;

(b) whether the security is sufficient;

(c) what amount should be advanced;

(d) in what instalments (if there are to be more than one instalment) the loan is to be advanced; and

(e) subject to the provisions of rules what period is to be allowed before repayment commences.

In deciding these points the Collector shall have regard to the circumstances of the borrower, the character and cost of the improvement and the date on which it is likely to begin to pay, and he shall satisfy himself that the advance is sufficient to cover so much of the total outlay required for the construction of the work as the borrower is unable to provide out of his own resources.

oans not to lude fractions of a ee

7. No loan under these rules shall include a fraction of a rupee, and where loans are to be repaid in more than one instalment the sums given shall be such that no instalment will include a fraction of a rupee.

ecurity

8. (1) Where the amount of the loan does not exceed three-fourths of the value of the applicant's transferable interest in the land after the improvement has been made, no collateral security need be required.

Suspension of instalments

All such general orders shall be reported to the Commissioner at the time that they are made, and the total sums covered by the special orders shall be reported to the Commissioner at the time of the submission of the annual return.

25. (1) If at any time it is proved to the satisfaction of the Collector that any part of a loan has been misapplied, or that it is not being spent on the work for which it was intended, or that the statements made by the applicant in his application for the loan, or by his sureties in their bond proffering collateral security, as to the nature and extent of the encumbrances on the immoveable property pledged as security for the repayment of the loan are in any particular untrue, the Collector may, after recording in writing the grounds of his decision, and subject to the control of the superior revenue authorities, proceed to recover the whole amount of the loan, with such interest as may have become due thereon, at the rate of 12½ per cent. per annum from the date on which the loan was made to the date of recovery.

(2) Before determining to take action under sub-rule (1), the Collector shall make allowance for the expense of supervision, even when that may have been supplied by the debtor himself.

26. When land is reclaimed from waste and brought under cultivation by means of a loan granted under the Act, the increase in value derived from the improvement shall not be taken into account in revising the assessment of land revenue on the land until after the expiration of a period of five years reckoned from the beginning of the harvest first reaped after such reclamation was effected.

27. When land assessed at unirrigated rates is improved by irrigation by means of a loan granted under the Act, the increase in value derived from the improvement shall not be taken into account in revising the assessment of land revenue on the land,

(a) if the irrigation is provided by the construction of a new masonry well, until after the expiration of twenty years reckoned from the beginning of the harvest first reaped after such improvement was effected;

(b) if the irrigation is provided by the construction of a distributary from a canal, until after the expiration of a period of five years reckoned as in clause (a) of this rule directed; or

(c) if the irrigation is provided by any means other than those hereinbefore in clauses (a) and (b) specified, until after the expiration of a period of ten years reckoned as in clause (a) of this rule directed.

28. Nothing in these rules shall be deemed to affect any power of the Local Government to grant in special cases loans under the Act on terms other than those hereinbefore prescribed or to affect the terms of any special agreement under which any loan under the Act has been or may hereafter be granted or the terms of any unexpired settlement.

29. The forms of all returns, registers and accounts relating to loans under this Act shall be as prescribed from time to time by Government in the Revenue Department.

Repayment loans

10. When instalments of loans are due, either they shall be repaid or (if circumstances so demand) suspension shall be allowed, or certificates shall be filed. In case of delay in payment of an instalment of a loan repayable in more than one instalment, it will be open to the Collector in accordance with the terms of the bond in Form B to declare the whole of the loan to be due and to proceed to realise it.

Interest on lo

11. (1) The ordinary rate of interest on loans shall be one anna in the rupee or 6¼ per cent. per annum.

Instalments for repayment

12. (1) The dates for repayment will in all cases be fixed by the Collector with due regard to the dates of harvest of the principal crops.

(2) In an area which depends mainly on the crop of one season there shall be one kist in the year. In an area which depends, to a more or less equal extent on the crops of two seasons there shall be two kists in the year. Where two kists are fixed it is not necessary that they should be at intervals of six months, but the dates shall be separated from one another by an exact number of months in order to facilitate calculation of interest.

riod of repayment.

13. (1) The Collector shall fix the periods for the repayment of loans.

(2) Loans shall ordinarily be made repayable within one or two years, but for special reasons a longer period may be given with the sanction of the Commissioner.

Advance paymer

14. (1) It shall be permissible for borrowers to repay their loans or port ons thereof in advance of the fixed payment dates.

(2) In cases in which such advance payments are made the interest levied at the time of the next payment shall be limited to the amount accruing on the portion of the loan left outstanding after the advance payment.

(3) Advance payments of principal shall be accompanied by the interest due on the outstanding amount of the loan up to the date of payment of the advance, so as to facilitate calculation of interest at the next payment, and the amount of principal repaid in advance shall not include a fraction of a rupee

(4) The interest levied on the occasion of an advance payment shall be calculated on the number of whole months intervening since the last payment date.

Suspension instalments

15. (1) The Collector is authorized to grant suspensions of payment of instalments of loans, either by a general order relating to a specific area on account of failure of crops, or any other exceptional calamity, or by special orders, on account of circumstances beyond the control of the borrowers which would render the payment of the instalment unduly burdensome. All such general orders shall be reported to the Commissioner at the time that they are made, and the total sums covered by such special orders shall be reported to the Commissioner at the time of the submission of the annual return.

(2) No interest shall be charged for the period of suspension, and the payment of each remaining instalment due in respect of the loan shall be postponed to the date of the next instalment, and a new date fixed for the last instalment.

Realization and suspension

16. The Collector or Subdivisional Officer shall require that loans be repaid strictly at the periods fixed for repayment, unless there is good reason to the contrary, and no instalment shall be allowed to remain unpaid without either a formal order granting the suspension of the instalment, or a certificate being issued for realization of the arrear. When collections are made locally and it is probable that the work of collection will extend for some days beyond the date fixed for payment, the District Officer shall give orders to ensure that all payments made in the course of the collection operations shall be treated as regards the calculation of interest as having been paid on the due date.

N.B.—Provided that care is taken in distributing loans, that the dates for repayment are fixed with due regard to the dates of harvest of the principal crops and that careful programmes are prepared for local collections, and that the programmes are published in advance in the places where collections are to be made, there ought to be very few cases in which certificates will be necessary. In cases of widespread failure of crops and of individual hardship, rule 15 provides for suspension of instalments, and suspensions or remissions should be granted when the circumstances make this justifiable. But when the borrowers are able to pay, payment must be enforced with strictness. If certificates are necessary, care must be taken that the demand reaches the borrower at a season of the year when he is likely to be able to make payment, and property should not be distrained and sold at other seasons of the year without the special or general orders of the District Officer, who should carefully watch the progress of such certificate cases.

Remission

17. Remission of a loan or of a portion of a loan may be sanctioned only where the recovery of the loan in full would occasion serious hardship. Subject to this, the Collector may grant remission in the case of any one loan up to a limit of Rs. 25, and the Commissioner up to a limit of Rs. 200 Remissions above this limit shall require the sanction of the Local Government.

II.—Special rules for the distribution of loans during famine and scarcity and when distress is apprehended or is present.

18. When extensive distress due to drought, floods, or other calamity is imminent or is present, loans for the prevention or relief of distress, or for enabling the people to cultivate their lands shall be sanctioned and disbursed in the villages with the least possible delay. Employment and powers of special agency.

20. (1) The Collector or the Subdivisional Officers acting under his orders shall determine the principles to be followed by officers granting loans under their supervision as regards the constitution of groups of borrowers, the general range of the amounts to be allotted to individuals in a group, and the basis of fixing the amount to be allotted to individuals, e.g., the extent of damage, the area of land cultivated, or the number of dependents to be supported.

(2) It shall be the duty of the Collector or of the Subdivisional Officer, as the case may be, to exercise the closest supervision, in order to ensure uniformity in principle in granting the loans, and for this purpose they shall, when convenient and when undue delay will not thereby be caused, scrutinize some of the lists prepared by the subordinate officers empowered to grant loans and themselves pass orders as to the amounts to be granted.

Joint bond system.

21. (1) The loans under the special rules contained in this part shall be granted only on the joint bond system to groups of co-villagers, and the amounts granted to each group shall not ordinarily exceed Rs. 350.

(2) The number of members in a group shall ordinarily be from 8 to 20, and the groups shall be so arranged that the poor and those who are better off shall be combined in the same group, so as to improve the security.

No written application or detailed enquiries necessary

22. (1) No written applications either from the group or from its individual members shall be necessary, and detailed enquiries need not be made as to the circumstances of the borrowers.

(2) When the services of subordinate officers or non-official agents are utilised for preparing lists of groups of applicants for the orders of superior officers they shall be supplied with papers in Form K annexed to these rules on which any special instructions may be written by the Collector or the Subdivisional Officer.

Entry of details of groups

23. (1) When the officer granting the loan has finally determined each group, he shall enter the name, father's name and area of land in the cultivating possession of each member of the group, and also the amount to be paid to each such member, in columns 2, 3, 4 and 5 of the schedule appended to Form I, which shall serve both as a joint bond and as a receipt for the payments made.

(2) The said Officer shall then total the amounts so entered and read out the names and amounts and total of the group and shall thereafter personally pay out to each member of the group the whole sum due to him.

(3) As each payment is made the said officer shall take the signature of the borrower, where possible, as well as his thumb impression in the appropriate column of the schedule, explaining to him that this is not only a receipt for the money, but also an agreement to pay the repayment instalments on the due dates and to make good the default, if any, of a fellow member of the group.

(4) The aforesaid officer shall then certify on the bond that the sums specified have been paid to each of the recipients and that the bond was executed by them in his presence and shall record the name of the identifier of the payees of the fact that he personally knows them.

(5) The spokesman of the group shall then be given a statement in Form J annexed to these rules.

Second loan

24. When the period of distress is prolonged, a second loan may be given to any one who has already received a loan, provided that the personal security of the group is found to be sufficient, but loans shall not be given without reasonable prospect of repayment.

Application of ordinary rules to cases of scarcity or distress.

25. Rules 1 to 17 shall apply to loans granted on occasions of scarcity and distress, so far as those rules are not inconsistent with rules 18 to 24.

NOTE.—In areas in which the special rules have been introduced Forms I, J or K shall be used in lieu of Forms A to H.

III.—Special Loans under the Act.

Grant of loans to agriculturists for purposes subsidiary to agriculture.

26. (1) Loans under the Agriculturists' Loans Act may be given to agriculturists to facilitate processes which are ordinarily employed by them or which are necessary to the marketing of their crops, e.g., for the purchase of small plant for gur making, oil pressing, cotton ginning and dhan husking. Care must be taken that the security is adequate, and the operations for which such loans are given shall be such as can be carried on by individuals or small combinations of agriculturists without expert supervision.

(2) The procedure in regard to such loans shall be that laid down in rules 1 to 17, so far as the same is applicable to loans issued under this rule.

Loans in special cases.

27. Nothing in these rules shall be deemed to affect any power of the local Government to grant in special cases loans under the Act on terms other than those hereinbefore prescribed or to affect the terms of any special agreement under which any loan under the Act has been or may hereafter be granted or the terms of any unexpired settlement.

Sheriff's Sale Proclamation.

TO be peremptorily sold, pursuant to the order of the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal in its Ordinary Original Civil Jurisdiction dated the 3rd day of July 1916 made in execution of a decree of the said High Court in its Appellate Jurisdiction dated 20th day of June 1911 and made in appeal No. 65 of 1909 (the appeal being preferred against the decree passed in the Sub-Judge's Court of Rajshahi in suit No. 309 of 1907 of the said Court wherein Rajah Sreenath Roy and others were the plaintiffs and Annoda Mohan Roy was the defendant), by the Sheriff of Calcutta in his sale-room on the ground-floor of the Court House by public auction on Friday, the 6th day of July 1917, at the hour of 12 o'clock noon, the undermentioned property :—

All that undivided 6 annas share (out of the whole 16 annas) of the defendant Annoda Mohan Roy of and in all the hereditaments and premises No. 3, Hem Chunder Ker's Lane, Kumbuliatolla in Sutanuty in the town of Calcutta the whole of the said premises No. 3, Hem Chunder Ker's Lane, comprising an area of 16 cottahs and 4 chittacks more or less, and bounded on the north by the house of Gopi Nath Mukherjee, on the south by the land of Chintamoney Ganguly and the dwelling-house of Hem Chunder Ker, on the east by Hem Chunder Ker's Lane and the house of Nani Chuckerbutty, and on the west by a tank and the new house of Dassoo Mukherjee and the land of Nibaran Mukherjee.

From the search made in the office of the Registrar of Assurances, Calcutta, from the year 1865 to 1916, it appears that on the 22nd February 1905 Annoda Mohan Roy created a charge in favour of one Upendra Nath Mandal in respect of his undivided one-fourth share of and in the said premises No. 3, Hem Chunder Ker's Lane, and certain other properties to secure the repayment of Rs. 12,000 with interest thereon at the rate of 12 per cent. per annum, and that on the 24th March 1905 Annoda Mohan Roy created a charge in favour of the said Upendra Nath Mandal in respect of his said undivided one-fourth share of and in the said premises No. 3, Hem Chunder Ker's Lane, and certain other properties to secure the repayment of Rs. 3,000 with interest thereon at 12 per cent. per annum, and that on the 23rd December 1910 Annoda Mohan Roy executed a mortgage in favour of Benares Bank, Limited, in respect of his 4 annas share in the said premises No. 3, Hem Chunder Ker's Lane, and certain other properties to secure the repayment of Rs. 34,000 with interest thereon at 10 per cent. per annum, and that on the 24th September 1914 the Benares Bank, Limited, executed an assignment of the said mortgage dated the 23rd day of December 1910 in favour of one Rajah Jagat Kishore Acharjee Chaudhuri.

The sum for the recovery of which the sale has been ordered is Rs. 906-2-6 besides costs of execution.

The condition of sale may be seen at the Sheriff's Office on any day before the sale and will be produced at the sale.

N.B.—It appears from an affidavit filed in these execution proceedings of Kashi Nath Mantra a retired Vakil of this Court, and at one time a Receiver appointed by the Rajshahi Court in the above mentioned suit No. 309 of 1907 of the Sub-Judge's Court Rajshahi, and at present the constituted Attorney of the said judgment-debtor that the said judgment-debtor was entitled to a 6 annas share of the attached premises, he having on the 16th February 1903 purchased an undivided 4 annas share in his own name and an undivided 2 annas share thereof on the 31st day of March 1904 in the name of one Ashutosh Roy who used to serve under the said judgment-debtor. The original Kobala in favour of the said Ashutosh Roy may be seen at the office of Babu Monmotho Nath Dutt, Attorney for the decree-holder, at No. 10, Hastings Street in Calcutta at any date before the date of sale and will be produced at the time of the sale.

IRRIGATION DEPARTMENT.

NOTIFICATION.

No. 5.—The 19th June 1917.—In exercise of the powers conferred by sections 6 and 11 of the Canals Act, 1864 (Bengal Act V of 1864), and in supersession of those portions of Bengal Government Notification No. 98, dated the 4th April 1893, as amended by subsequent notifications, and of Notification No. 3, dated the 17th May 1906, which relate to the Midnapore Canal, with branch to Naraingar, the Governor in Council is pleased to make and fix the following rules and schedules of rates of tolls for the said Midnapore Canal, with branch to Naraingar.

F. A. A. COWLEY,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

Rules.

1. Every vessel entering or passing along the Midnapore Canal, or its branch, the Naraingar Distributary, shall be liable to measurement for the purpose of ascertaining the amount of toll the vessel should pay according to the schedule of rates authorised by Government to be charged on this line of navigation.

2. The tonnage of every vessel, except loose timber and rafts, whether laden or empty, shall, for the purposes of the "Canals Act, 1864," and of these rules, be determined by the following measurements:—

(a) The product of half the length of the vessel, measured along the water-line and round the contour of the vessel from centre of stem to centre of stern-post, multiplied by the interior greatest breadth of the vessel or by the greatest breadth of the cargo, should this overhang, or, as in the case of logs, be lashed alongside, multiplied by the greatest interior depth from the water-line to the bottom of the vessel, is to be taken as equal to the number of maunds upon which toll shall be levied.

(b) The measurement of the length is to be made in feet, rejecting fractions of a foot, and the measurement of the breadth and depth in feet and quarters of feet, rejecting portions of less than a quarter of a foot.

(c) In calculating the amount of toll to be levied, any portion of 100 maunds less than 10 maunds is to be omitted.

(d) In calculating the amount of toll to be levied on steamers, an allowance of one-third the total maundage, as found under clauses (a), (b) and (c), is to be made for engine space.

3. Every vessel entering or passing along the said line of navigation shall be furnished with a ticket on paying the prescribed toll. The ticket shall specify the station at which it has been issued, the name of the person in charge of the vessel, the date on which the voyage commenced, the point to which the vessel may proceed on the line of navigation, the maundage of the vessel, the amount of toll charged, the number of days allowed for the voyage, and the date of such last day. The number of days so allowed without additional payment shall be calculated at the rate of one day for every eight miles, or portion of eight miles, to be traversed, together with one day for every 200 maunds of measurement. In the case of rafts, one day for every five miles shall be allowed.

4. Toll may be paid at the first station, either for the entire number of toll-stations on the line of navigation or for any less number of stations.

5. The tickets thus given may be demanded for inspection by any duly authorised navigation officer, and must be kept on board and at hand for that purpose. They must be shown at each toll-station the vessel has to pass as a passport that no further payment of toll is to be demanded. The tickets shall be delivered up at the last toll-station.

Navigation officers shall have authority to check-measure vessels whenever they consider it necessary, and if the toll due according to the check-measurement exceeds that originally paid, the difference shall be payable at the toll-station of check-measurement, or at the next toll-station at which the vessel may arrive if the check-measurement was made at some point other than a toll-station. The officer collecting the difference shall endorse the ticket showing the measurements, and note the amount recovered in excess of the toll originally paid.

6. Owners or hirers of vessels may compound, by the payment of a fixed sum, for the use of the whole or any portion of the line of navigation for any period that may be agreed upon, not exceeding one year. In such case the vessel shall be furnished with a ticket showing the amount of toll paid, the period for which the toll has been compounded, and the limits of the line of navigation within which the vessel may pass. Such ticket shall be kept on board the vessel, and shall be produced when required under rule 5, but shall be given up only on the date of the expiry of the period for which it is granted, and at the station from which it is issued.

7. Duplicates of lost tickets of which the numbers and dates of entry can be satisfactorily established, will be granted by the officers in charge of toll-stations on payment of a fee of one rupee.

8. Every vessel, which does not complete its voyage within the number of days allowed by rule 3, shall, for each day or part of a day in excess, be liable to an extra charge equal to 8 annas per 100 maunds, calculated on the maundage of the vessel, as determined by rule 2. The charge for demurrage on timbers and rafts shall be as follows:—

Timber in rafts or loose	...	One anna per timber per day.
Bamboos in floats	...	Two annas per 100 per day.
Bullahs in rafts	...	Eight annas per 100 per day.

Provided as follows:—

(1) Exemption from payment of demurrage may be granted to vessels detained in the canal or its branch by stress of weather or heavy traffic, steamers broken down and boats damaged, if immediate notice of the cause of detention be given at the nearest toll-station for the information of the Executive Engineer.

(2) Missionary boats are exempted from payment of demurrage for lying in the canal or its branch.

(3) Exemption from payment of demurrage or tolls may be granted to vessels while waiting for cargo or for any other purpose at the places on the Midnapore Canal fixed by the Superintending Engineer for such purposes which include Kayali ghats, Canal ghats above and below every lock, and all free ghats on the 6th Reach of the Canal, Panskura to Dainan. Such exemption will not extend over a period of more than three months in each case.

If the person in charge of any vessel, on the completion of a voyage or on entering the canal, wishes his vessel to remain in any of the free ghats in the line of navigation he shall give up his toll ticket at the nearest toll station, specifying the particular ghat where he wishes to keep his vessel and shall take out a fresh ticket from such toll station before leaving such ghat. On failure to comply with this provision he shall be liable to demurrage charge as provided in this rule, which shall be recoverable as toll.

(4) Partial exemption from payment of demurrage is to be granted to boats thus:—

(a) by increasing the allowance of time for the voyage (see rule 3), which shall be calculated at the rate of one day for every 8 miles or portion of 8 miles to be traversed, together with one day for every 200 maunds of measurement or any portion of 200 maunds which is not less than 60 maunds—(from 60 to 190 maunds one day shall be allowed);

(b) by granting the following extra times for the purpose of bona-fide loading or unloading, or both, in the canals to—

		Days
Cargo boats from 10 to 100 maunds of measurement	...	5
" " " 110 to 200 " "	...	8
" " " 210 to 300 " "	...	10
" " " 310 to 400 " "	...	12
" " " 410 to 500 " "	...	14
" " of over 500 maunds—for every additional 100 maunds.	...	3
Passenger boats of 10 maunds and upwards	...	5

9. Vessels are allowed to be moored while waiting for cargo or otherwise at the Kayali ghats, Canal ghats above and below every lock, and all free ghats on the 6th Reach of the Canal—Panskura to Dainan; but they are allowed to be loaded and unloaded only at the Kayali ghats and the free ghats in the 6th Reach. In any case they must complete the voyage within the time allowable to them under these rules, otherwise demurrage will be charged.

The places at which vessels can be ordinarily loaded or unloaded in any Reach of the line of navigation are notified at the locks in the Reach, and no vessel without the previous permission of the Toll Collector (who should without delay inform the Executive Engineer of his permission having been granted), can be allowed to load or unload at any other place. Should any vessel be loaded or unloaded at any place other than those notified and without the said permission having been obtained, the person in charge of the vessel and the consignor or consignee of the goods shall, on conviction before a Magistrate, be liable to a fine not exceeding Rs. 10 for each offence.

10. No boat is permitted to moor in the outer channels of any lock. The channels to which this prohibition extends are as follows :—

Ulubaria.—Between the Ulubaria Lock and the Banspati Khal.
Bansbaria.—Between the Bansbaria Lock and the Damodar river.
Kultapara.—Between the Kultapara Lock and the Damodar river.
Kantapukur.—Between the Kantapukur Lock and the Rupnarayan river.
Dainan.—Between the Dainan Lock and the Rupnarayan river.
Panskura.—Between the Panskura east Lock and the Cossye river.
Panskura.—Between the Panskura west Lock and the Cossye river.
Mohunpur.—Between the Mohunpur Lock and the Cossye river.

No boat will be allowed, under any circumstances, to drop an anchor or to moor to both banks in any lock entrance or in the canal, except in the case of severe stress of weather.

11. Except with the written permission of a navigation officer, no goods or cargo may be deposited on any bank, berm or land appertaining to the canal at places other than those notified by the Superintending Engineer of the circle as available for such a purpose. Any person depositing goods in contravention of this rule shall, on conviction before a Magistrate, be liable to a fine not exceeding Rs. 50.

12. Navigation officers may order consignors or consignees or owners to remove their goods from the places notified as available for depositing cargo under rule 11. Goods not finally removed within a period of six days from the receipt of such order shall be liable to a charge of four annas per 100 maunds for each day or part of a day after the expiry of six days until finally removed.

13. Any vessel whose extreme dimensions exceed 130 feet in length and 19 feet in breadth including goods overhanging is prohibited from entering or passing along the line of navigation without the special permission in writing of the Executive Engineer; but straw boats of 20 feet width including overhangings (the overhangings beyond 19 feet being entirely straw) may be passed through the locks of the Main Canal; also no vessel exceeding 50 feet in length and 10½ feet in breadth including goods overhanging will be allowed to enter or pass along the Naraingar Distributary.

14. It will not be compulsory for the locks to be opened to single vessels of less than 500 maunds burden, except in the case of mail or despatch boats or passenger or cargo-boats in tow of steam-vessels; but the locks shall be opened for the passage of boats at least twice a day.

15. Mooring.—All vessels stopping at night must be moored head and stern to the bank of the channel or wherever specially ordered.

Only one line of vessels shall be allowed to pass along the canal or to make fast along and in a line with the canal banks or along and in a line with the banks of the river entrance to the locks, and no vessel shall be made fast, or be placed outside of vessels so secured, without the permission of a navigation officer. No vessel shall, however, be placed in such a position as to endanger the safety of other vessels, to obstruct their passage, or to impede the navigation.

16. Rule of the road.—When under sail, vessels are to keep in the centre of the channel. When being tracked, vessels are, wherever practicable, to keep to starboard or the right side of the channel. Vessels meeting in the canal, except when being tracked, must keep to their right when passing, and when one vessel overtakes another, the former must pass on the left. When vessels, one of which is sailing and the other steaming, meet in a canal, the sailing vessel must keep to the leeward. No steamer passing any vessel must proceed at a greater speed than half speed.

17. Lights and signals.—All vessels, whether travelling or moored in the line of navigation, must, between sunset and sunrise, carry a white light in a lantern on the forepart of the vessel where it can be distinctly seen from all sides. All steam-vessels in motion shall carry the lights prescribed by the Board of Trade Regulations. Barges or boats attached to a steam-vessel, whether in motion or moored, shall carry the white light prescribed above.

Where signals are used, no vessel shall enter or attempt to enter the entrance channel of a lock when a red flag or red light is displayed at the end of the lock next her, "but shall wait until the signal intimating 'all clear' is displayed." Steam-vessels approaching a lock shall whistle when a mile distant, and shall continue to whistle at intervals, until the signal intimating that the lock is open or closed is displayed, or, if no signals are used, until arrival.

18. Crews and attendants.—Every vessel, when stationary, shall be securely fastened, and shall at all times have some person in attendance on board. Every vessel in motion shall have a sufficient crew.

19. Fittings.—Vessels must have their masts, high awnings, and funnels fitted so that they can be let down with ease and speed, and no bamboos or poles shall be erected on or by vessels when at anchor.

20. Conduct of navigation.—Vessels are prohibited from making fast to any portion of the lock-gates or gearing, and steamers are prohibited from making fast the tow-lines of their boats until the latter are clear of the locks. Steamers are prohibited from lashing boats or barges alongside while proceeding within locks. No towing rope of a greater length than 100 feet is to be used in the canal. The throwing of cinders into the canal is prohibited; they are to be deposited on the banks.

21. In every case of wreck or obstruction of the channel by sunken vessels, the Supervisor of the line of navigation, or of a part of it, may call upon the person in charge of the vessel to remove the same without delay, and shall give every reasonable assistance towards so doing. But should the owner of the vessel or raft be not forthcoming, or should he not use reasonable expedition in removing the obstruction, or should he decline or fail to use proper assistance which may be offered to him by the Supervisor, this officer may, under the provisions of section 14 of the "Canals Act," undertake the removal of the obstruction himself at the cost of the owner of the boat recovering the expense in the manner prescribed in section 9 of the Act.

In the case of emergency and in the temporary absence of the Supervisor from the place where the obstruction occurred, any navigation officer present must at once report the matter to the Supervisor.

22. If the Supervisor be unable to ascertain the name and place of business or of the abode of the owner of the cargo of any vessel or boats seized under the Act, he shall notify the seizure in the most public manner available.

23. In the event of any damage or injury being occasioned to the canal works by wilfulness or negligence on the part of any person in charge of a vessel, the navigation officers may detain the vesssel at any point within the canal for a period not exceeding 48 hours: provided that, within that period, the navigation officers shall lodge a complaint against such person in charge of the vessel before a Magistrate under section 16 of the Act.

24. For any contravention of rules 15, 16, 17, 18, 19 and 20, the person in charge of the vessel shall, on conviction before a Magistrate, be liable to a fine not exceeding Rs. 50.

25. The term " navigation officers " as used in these rules shall include all persons appointed under section 8 of the " Canals Act, 1864 ", and all Public Works Officers or subordinates in charge of the canal not below the grade of Sub-Overseer.

26. The canal and its branch may be closed once a year for effecting the necessary repairs to them on one month's notice of the intention so to close them being given; but in the event of any sudden emergency they may be closed at any time without prior notice, and no claim in such case by owners of vessels or others for compensation on account of detention shall be entertained.

LIBERALITY OF BABU SASI BHUSAN RUDRA.

No. 392T.-Edn., dated Darjeeling, the 14th June 1917.

From—L. S. S. O'MALLEY, Esq., I.C.S., Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal, General Dept.

To—The Commissioner of the Burdwan Division.

WITH reference to the correspondence ending with your memorandum No. 215J.G., dated the 2nd June 1917, on the subject of the endowment of Rs. 34,500 made by Babu Sasi Bhusan Rudra for the maintenance of the "Krishna Mohan Institution" at Irphala, in the district of Midnapore, I am directed to convey the thanks of Government to the donor for his public spirit and liberality.

DISTRICT REPORTS ON WEATHER AND CROPS

For the week ending on the 18th June 1917.

Summary.—During the week under review seasonable rain generally fell throughout the Province. The fall was, however, excessive in a number of places damaging crops on low lands. Parts of the Midnapore district suffered rather heavily owing to the river Cossaye being in floods. Preparation of lands for winter rice and rearing of seedlings in nurseries continue. Transplantation has commenced in places. Weeding of jute and autumn paddy is going on in Western Bengal. The early variety of autumn paddy is being harvested in some of the Eastern Bengal districts. Damage to standing crops by insects is reported from the 24-Parganas and Jessore districts. Fodder is getting scarce in the low-lying tracts of Hooghly and Dacca. RESOLUTION ON THE ANNUAL REPORT ON EMIGRATION FROM THE PORT OF CALCUTTA TO BRITISH AND FOREIGN COLONIES DURING THE YEAR 1916.

DARJEELING, THE 22ND JUNE 1917

RESOLUTION—No. 190T.—Emi.

READ—

The Annual Report on Emigration from the Port of Calcutta to British and Foreign Colonies during the year 1916.

THE Central Emigration Depôt at Benares was temporarily closed during the year under review. The decision of Government to abolish the indentured system of emigration to the Colonies was also announced, and the question of devising a new scheme in substitution for that system came under consideration.

2. Five emigration agencies were at work in 1916 as against three in the year 1915 : four on behalf of the British Colonies, and one for the Dutch Colony of Surinam which resumed recruiting during the year. Chiefly owing to the shortage of steamers it was again impossible to meet the demands of the Colonies : though these increased from 5,846 adults in 1915 to 9,071 in 1916, only 3,661, or 1,347 more than in the previous year, were supplied.

3. The number of licenses issued to recruiters was 498 in 1916—a decrease of 58 on the preceding year. Twenty-seven licenses, including 8 granted in 1915, were cancelled, misconduct being the cause in 22 against 12 cases in the preceding year.

4. Recruiting operations were conducted in Bengal, Bihar and Orissa, the United Provinces of Agra and Oudh, Ajmer and the Punjab, but not in the Central Provinces. In all 4,932 emigrants, or 1,043 less than in 1915, were registered, 85·66 per cent. of the total number coming from the United Provinces.

5. Of the 5,232 emigrants admitted into sub-depôts, 430 were rejected as unfit to emigrate, 63 deserted, and 108 were released from their engagements, and of the remainder 4,484 arrived at the Calcutta depôts, but this number was subsequently reduced by rejections, releases, and other causes to 4,013. Of these, 3,834 (2,545 males and 1,289 females) were shipped as against 2,438 (1,598 males and 840 females) in 1915, among whom 127 or 3·42 per cent. were returned emigrants who re-emigrated.

6. The sanitary arrangements in the depôts were good, and there was a satisfactory decrease in the percentages both of sickness and mortality, the figures being 6·8 and ·13 as against 10·61 and ·15, respectively, in 1915.

7. Two thousand one hundred and seventy-five emigrants left the Colonies during 1916, bringing with them savings aggregating Rs. 4,90,350, or an average of Rs. 225-7-2 per head, as compared with Rs. 183-10-11 in the previous year. On the other hand, 1,661 emigrants including 1,230 adults, or 76·36 per cent. of the total, returned with no savings.

8. There was an increase in the total amounts of remittances from emigrants resident in Demerara, Trinidad and Surinam, but the remittances from Mauritius, Natal and Jamaica fell off. As in previous years, Natal sent the largest sum by money-order, the total being Rs. 6,79,913, but this amount probably includes remittances from more well-to-do Indians residing there as well as from labourers. The average savings of resident Indians in the several Colonies are reported to have decreased in 1916, war conditions being in some cases held accountable for the decline.

9. One hundred and ninety-seven estates of deceased emigrants valued at Rs. 23,900 were administered by Government during the year. Of these, the heirs of 113 were traced, 47 lapsed to the Colonial and Indian Governments, and the remainder were under enquiry at the end of the year. The emigration accounts closed with a deficit of Rs. 15,530-14, due to the decrease of embarkation fees in consequence of the falling off in the number of emigrants despatched.

10. Dr. C. Banks held the office of the Protector of Emigrants throughout the year, with the exception of a brief period when he was on leave. Shortly after compiling the report under review, Dr. Banks proceeded on furlough preparatory to retirement. He has held the appointment of Protector of Emigrants since the 16th May 1897, and his administration of his office has throughout been one of marked success. The Governor in Council desires to place on record his high appreciation of the valuable service that Dr. Banks has rendered in connection with the recruitment of labour for the Colonies.

By order of the Governor in Council.

Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

RESOLUTION ON THE BUDGET ESTIMATES OF INCOME AND EXPENDITURE OF THE PORT TRUST, CALCUTTA, FOR THE YEAR 1917-18.

No. 1632Marine.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

MARINE DEPARTMENT.

Dated Calcutta, the 25th June 1917.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

Letter No. 11772, dated the 29th March 1917, from the Vice-Chairman, Port Commissioners, Calcutta, submitting the Budget Estimates of Income and Expenditure of the Port Trust for the year 1917-18.

Capital Expenditure.

IN view of the restrictions imposed by the Government of India on the borrowings by local bodies, the Port Commissioners have, for the year 1917-18, restricted their expenditure to such as is absolutely unavoidable on works in connection with the Docks extension scheme and No. 3, Calcutta Jetty. The total estimated outlay amounts to Rs. 19,88,000, which will be met, without fresh borrowing, from the estimated credit balance, on the 31st March 1917, of Rs. 45,00,000 on capital account. The Governor in Council, with the previous approval of the Government of India, sanctions the outlay.

Revenue Receipts.

The revenue receipts for the year 1917-18 (including receipts from the special war surcharges) have been estimated at a reduced figure of Rs. 1,52,26,862 as against Rs. 1,56,55,140, the estimate of the preceding year. The Commissioners anticipate that the effect of the war conditions on their revenue is likely to be accentuated this year, both as regards import and general export trade, by the restrictions recently imposed by Government on shipment of jute and tea as well as by the shortage of freight and the difficulties of exchange which have been so pronounced for the last few months.

Revenue Expenditure.

The ordinary revenue expenditure of the Trust, exclusive of interest and sinking fund charges, has been estimated at Rs. 86,32,242, as compared with Rs. 83,16,308, the estimate for 1916-17, the difference being due mainly to the provision of another one lakh for depreciation and to allowance for increased cost of materials including coal. The expenditure under the heads "Establishment," "Maintenance and Repairs," "Labour" and "Stores" has been curtailed as much as is compatible with the efficient working of the Trust. The interest and sinking fund charges amount to Rs. 69,38,473.

RESOLUTION ON THE ANNUAL REPORT ON THE POLICE ADMINISTRATION OF THE TOWN OF CALCUTTA AND ITS SUBURBS FOR THE YEAR 1916.

POLITICAL DEPARTMENT.

POLICE.

CALCUTTA, THE 22ND JUNE 1917.

RESOLUTION—No. 8915P.

READ—

The annual report on the Police administration of the town of Calcutta and its suburbs for the year 1916.

MR. R. CLARKE held charge of the office of Commissioner of Police throughout the year, except for one month, when Mr. C. A. Tegart, C.I.E., M.V.O., officiated for him. Mr. J. V. B. Bromage, Deputy Commissioner in charge of headquarters, resigned his appointment after six years of valuable work in Calcutta, to join the army in France.

The force has been strengthened during the year by the formation of a third company of civil armed police, which has ensured the adequate protection of public buildings in the city, and has, at the same time, increased the mobile striking force immediately available in case of emergencies.

2. The most important event of the year was the reorganization of the superior branches of the Calcutta Police Force. Experience had shown that the arrangements previously in force were defective, in that they provided no clear line of division between administrative and executive duties and rendered it impossible for the Deputy Commissioners, who were overburdened with executive and miscellaneous work, to render efficient assistance to the Commissioner in administrative matters. The city of Calcutta has now been divided for general police purposes into two administrative divisions, each in charge of a Deputy Commissioner, who is directly responsible to the Commissioner for the police administration of the division. Each division is further divided into two executive districts, town and suburbs, each in charge of an Assistant Commissioner. Two more Assistant Commissioners have been allotted to the Port Police Division and to the Special Branch, respectively. These six posts of Assistant Commissioners are reserved for officers of the Calcutta Police who have shown themselves fitted to exercise responsible functions in regard to the executive control over the direct investigation of crime, and thus throw open to the best officers in the force an avenue of promotion which was closed on the abolition of the old posts of Superintendents. The present arrangements, which are modelled on those in force in the London Police, have facilitated further reforms, such as the separation of the investigating and patrol staff, and will, it is hoped, lead to a general improvement in the police administration of the city of Calcutta.

3. Considerable difficulties have been experienced in regard to the recruitment of constables. There were 259 resignations, or more than double the number in the previous year, and in spite of the deputation of special recruiting parties to Bihar and the United Provinces, and the grant of a bonus of Rs. 6-8 to each recruit, there were 483 vacancies in the ranks at the end of the year. These recruiting difficulties are largely due to the war. A number of men of the classes and districts from which recruits are ordinarily drawn have been taken for the army and for labour corps, and the recent increase in the pay and allowances of sepoys of the Indian Army has depreciated the attractions of the civil police. The question of the conditions of service in the police as regards both pay and housing will have to be taken up when normal conditions are restored. The Commissioner has been asked to work out a comprehensive building scheme. At present, of 209 buildings occupied by the police in Calcutta, only 37 belong to Government, the rest being rented at an annual cost of over Rs. 2½ lakhs.

4. The total number of true cognizable cases reported during the year was 100,413, an increase of 4,000 over the previous year, mainly in petty cases under the Police Act, which formed 71 per cent. of the total number of cases. In regard to more serious crime, the statistics show few important variations. An increase of 170 burglary cases is attributed by the Commissioner mainly to the fact that an unusually large number of old offenders were at large during the year, and Mr. Clarke has offered some interesting remarks on the peculiar difficulties experienced in Calcutta in dealing with these nuisances to society. The preventive sections of the Criminal Procedure Code are of little use in a large city, where the ordinary resident knows or cares little what his neighbour is doing and is not prepared to go into Court to give evidence against him, even if he has suspicions regarding his means of livelihood.

There has been a remarkable falling off in excise cases during the last two years, owing mainly to the decrease in prosecutions for selling cocaine in the streets. The stoppage of the trade with Germany and Austria has fortunately reduced the supply of the drug.

The Detective Department gave valuable assistance to the ordinary police during the year, and successfully prosecuted three gangs of coiners and a dangerous gang of swindlers, besides breaking up a band of Europeans and Anglo-Indians who had been trafficking in arms with members of the revolutionary party.

5. Of the 804 juvenile offenders convicted during the year, 740 were tried in the Special Court attached to the House of Detention and only 6 were actually sent to jail. Further particulars should be given in future years regarding the work of the probation officers who have recently been appointed to supervise the conduct of juvenile offenders on their release from the House of Detention.

6. The vigorous measures taken to cope with the violent outbreak of revolutionary crime at the end of 1915 achieved a large measure of success, and except for a dacoity in June and a robbery in November, the city was free from seditionist crime of this nature. The Government of Bengal have however to deplore the loss of two brave police officers who were foully murdered on account of the loyalty and devotion which they had shown in combating the revolutionary movement. On the 16th January, Sub-Inspector Madhusadan Bhattacharji of the Calcutta Special Branch was shot dead by two Bengali youths in College Street opposite the Medical College, and on the evening of the 30th June, Deputy Superintendent Basanta Kumar Chatterji, of the Bengal Intelligence Branch, whose life had frequently been threatened, was assassinated by five Bengali youths in Bhawanipur while returning home from his work. An orderly head constable who was accompanying him was also shot and subsequently succumbed to his injuries. The murder of these officers, far from dispiriting their comrades, has only stimulated them to greater efforts, and their courage and vigilance were rewarded by the arrest, in the streets of Calcutta, of several dangerous revolutionaries armed with revolvers, as well as of many other criminals, including, it is believed, most of those who were responsible for the outrages committed in Calcutta during the year.

7. The increase in the number of motor cars and taxi-cabs in Calcutta has made the proper regulation of the traffic a matter of importance and difficulty, and the Governor in Council regrets to notice that the sentences awarded by the Courts for breaches of the traffic rules are often lenient. The public require protection against drivers who wilfully or recklessly disregard the regulations, and such offences merit severe punishment. The question of amending the law in order to give the Commissioner of Police power to cancel or suspend driving licenses has been referred to the Government of India. Meanwhile the Commissioner should not hesitate to refer to Government cases in which license-holders, by their criminal or foolish recklessness, have shown their unfitness to drive a motor car in the traffic of a large city.

8. The working of the Calcutta Fire Brigade continues to be satisfactory. but from the point of view of loss from fire the year was most unfortunate, and the Brigade was called out on 509 occasions, or nearly twice as frequently as in the previous year. The Bengal Telephone Company have given valuable assistance in the erection of alarm pillars and other devices for the prompt dissemination of alarms. The high reputation enjoyed by the Brigade and by its Chief Officer, Mr. B. A. Westbrook, was shown by the selection of the latter to proceed on special duty to Mesopotamia to organise fire protective arrangements there.

9. The thanks of Government are due to Mr. Clarke for his efficient administration of the Calcutta Police and also to the officers whom he has specially mentioned for good work done during the year. The courage, tenacity and devotion to duty of all ranks, European and Indian, engaged in the fight against revolutionary crime have been beyond all praise, and the Governor in Council is especially desirous of recording his gratification at the considerable measure of success which has rewarded the efforts of all those engaged in this difficult and dangerous branch of police work. He also observes with satisfaction that in spite of the energies of the force, and especially of its best officers, having been largely absorbed in work of this particular character, the general standard of ordinary police work in the city has been well maintained.

ORDER.—Ordered, that a copy of this Resolution be forwarded to the Commissioner of Police, Calcutta, the Chief Presidency Magistrate, Calcutta, and the Commissioner of the Presidency Division for information.

Ordered, also, that a copy of the Resolution and a copy of the Report be submitted to the Government of India in the Home Department.

Ordered, also, that the Resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

By order of the Governor in Council,

J. H. KERR,

Chief Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.
